MR. FISHER: I would like to call the case of H. Yanagisawa. This man speaks English, my lord.

HIROHITO YANAGISAWA, the claimant herein, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

MR. FISHER: My lord, with regard to the claim in this manner, after discussing the real estate valuations with myself, this man came to the conclusion he would abandon that.

10 THE COMMISSIONER: Abandon the real estate claim?

MR. FISHER: Yes. I think there is probably quite a legitimate claim for about $3000.00, but after discussing the matter we decided to abandon it.

On the chattel clim the figures remain the same with the exception of the $423.00 which should be $423.50. It was just a mistake in his transposing some figures there. The total is correct, $1166.00. The credit is $456.90. The Custodian credit is $456.90. It doesn't appear there. He 20 had given the credit on the other side and lumped it with the real estate sale.

THE COMMISSIONER: Making a net claim of how much?

MR. FISHER: $709.10.

DIRECT EXAMINATION BY MR. FISHER:

Q Now, Mr. Yanagisawa, you gave me certain information with regard to your personal chattel claim and had it written down at the office. It sets out that it is with regard to a portion of household

30 goods at your home at 1766 Franklin Street,

Vancouver? A: Yes.

Q It shows a claim of $1166.00 less a credit and details what your value had been previously as placed on the J.P. form, is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q I would ask you to sign it. It is true and correct to the best of your information and belief?

A Yes.

MR. FISHER: I would ask that be filed as Exhibit 1, my lord.

(STATEMENT MARKED EXHIBIT NO. 1).

MR. FISHER: I ask my learned friend for the claims analysis. My lord, in this instance I ask to file on behalf of my learned friend the analysis of personal property claim as Exhibit 2, and with my learned friend's approval I have pencilled in the valuations of the claimant in the column that had not been previously marked up, and that will go in as Exhibit 2.

(ANALYSIS MARKED EXHIBIT NO. 2).

Q Now I produce to you a list of household chattels. Was that list prepared by you or by someone in your family? A:. It was prepared by my father.

Q Prepared by your father? A: Yes.

Q And that is a list of the goods that were on the property and that are being claimed for here?

A That is right.

MR. FISHER: My lord, I don't know that it is necessary to put it in. Was this incorporated in any J.P.

form, or report to the Custodian?

Q Was a copy of this given to the Custodian at any time? A: I believe it was, yes.

THE COMMISSIONER: Is there any disparity between it and the J.P. form?

MR. FISHER: I don't think so. The J.P. form coincides. It is identical. This is the front page of it. It is the only claim being made and this is a copy of what was on the J.P. form. The details on the analysis before your Lordship, those figures that have been filled in are an exact copy of what the man put on the J.P. form. I have incorporated it on the statement as we didn't have an extra copy of this list.

Q Now, what is your position as to the value of these articles, Mr. Yanagisawa, and the chattels ? What have you to say about them?

A Well the prices that I put on for them are very fair as far as the market value goes.

Q And when were they priced? A: They were priced at the time we were evacuated. Of course, I was evacuated before my family, you see, and my dad had put the prices on.

Q Your dad put the prices on? A: And he told me. He is in Toronto now, and he told me that the prices there were the fair market value to his knowledge.

Q Have you his authority to present this claim on behalf of the family?

A Well, my mother would give me the authority all right. The only thing is I didn't have enough time to get in contact with her before I appeared here. I have been only down here a week.

THE COMMISSIONER: In the circumstances, Mr. Fisher, you better get a written authority from the mother.

MR. FISHER: I ask for liberty to file a written authority from the mother.

THE COMMISSIONER: Q: You are Hirohito Yanagisawa?

A Yes, that is right.

10 Q That is your name? A: That is my name.

Q Is this your property? A: Well, it is a joint account with my mother.

Q What is her name? A: Masu, M-a-s-u, is her first name.

THE COMMISSIONER: All right.

MR. FISHER: I think, my lord, there is nothing very much that can be added. It is a straight case of valuation compared to real estate selling price or, rather, real property selling price. There 20 are just one or two articles that are checked as being unaccounted for and missing.

THE COMMISSIONER: I noticed that.

MR. FISHER: There is one rug and a typewriter and two water sprays. No, it is a congoleum rug. It might be noted, my lord, in this case that these people did give a detailed list on the J.P. form and the values were put on the J.P. format the time of evacuation. There is one other comment; there was another page or so of articles and I

30 asked why he wasn't claiming in that regard and

I think it is set out in his form that he got hard up for money at one time and the remainder of the goods were in storage and he wrote back and wanted his money and didn't want the goods and for that reason he feels he is more or less barred from claiming for the rest of it.

THE COMMISSIONER: Were the rest of the goods disposed of?

MR. FISHER: The rest of the goods were disposed of by 10 the Custodian.

THE COMMISSIONER: He has no complaint in that regard?

MR. FISHER: I suppose he has a complaint but he pretty well waived it by writing and saying he was going to have an operation and he said he wanted $600.00 and he wasn't interested in the goods.

THE WITNESS: I more or less put my head into it when I said that.

THE COMMISSIONER: Q: In any case, you consider now you authorized the sale of those goods?

20 A Yes.

THE COMMISSIONER: Yes, very well.

MR. HUNTER: It is submitted, my lord, that these chattels were sold for their fair market value. I am not sure how my learned friend arrived at the credit figure of $456.90.

MR. FISHER: My lord, I just took his figure at the foot of the chattel analysis. You will notice $451.90 and $5.00 which would make $456.90, and the $481.95 covers other goods not claimed 30 for here today. That covers the other schedule of goods I have mentioned. If you look at your J.P. form you will see another schedule of goods on the second page, I think. As I understand the Department's form here, they have in the column shown $451.90 as the proceeds they received from the particular goods which are the subject of the claim.

THE COMMISSIONER: That is how I understand your claim. In other words, the goods sold for $481.95 are the goods to which the claimant referred a moment ago, the sale of which he authorized.

MR. HUNTER: I would like to reserve our position on that in case I ascertain there is anything.

THE COMMISSIONER: Very well.

MR. HUNTER: I should like to point out that the stove for which the claim was made should be added.

MR. FISHER: Yes. I think I made a mistake there. Apparently they got $50.00 for the stove when selling the real estate.

MR. HUNTER: It was sold to the person buying the house, my lord.

THE COMMISSIONER: That should be added to the credit, should it?

MR. FISHER: I should like to know where it came from -- in the statement of the house proceeds, did it? As long as it has been credited to him separately as a $50.00 item here, I am prepared to concede it.

MR. HUNTER: I merely have a memo that the stove was sold for $50.00 and credited to the joint account.

THE COMMISSIONER: Presumably it is included in the credit of $2150.00 which is shown on the real estate claim.

MR. HUNTER: I don't think so.

MR. FISHER: I just want my learned friend to clarify it, that is all. That $2150.00 is a deduction on both real estate and personalty.

MR. HUNTER: The real estate sold for $1700.00, my lord.

THE COMMISSIONER: There is $50.00 unaccounted for in the credit. How do you arrive at $2150.00 credit?

10 MR. FISHER: I think Mr. Yanagisawa arrived at it by taking the $1700.00 for the land and $451.90.

THE COMMISSIONER: $451.90? Oh, I follow you. The stove was sold separately?

MR. HUNTER: The stove was sold separately, my lord. There is a separate credit on the sheet here.

MR. FISHER: I am willing to accept that reduction, my lord.

MR. HUNTER: That would make a net claim of $659.10,

20 my lord. Aside from that, my lord, it appears to be purely a question of value on the three items stolen and one declared and not found. It is maintained that two items there are fixtures.

THE COMMISSIONER: Which do you contend are fixtures?

MR. HUNTER: The two shown on the analysis, my lord, the Venetian blinds. They appear in two places, 8 and 19, in the details of claim in the analysis. There are no questions.

THE COMMISSIONER: You concede that the articles shown

30 as stolen will be the subject of some compensation, is that the situation?

MR. HUNTER: Yes, my lord. They are fairly minor items actually.

MR. FISHER: That typewriter there is rather an important one.

MR. HUNTER: I don't see a typewriter. There was a typewriter declared and not found, my lord, No. 21. The three items that are stolen are items 6, 27 and 30.

10 THE COMMISSIONER: No. 6 is a rug, isn't it?

MR. HUNTER: No. 6 is a rug.

THE COMMISSIONER: Which the claimant values at $42.00.

MR. HUNTER: Yes.

CROSS-EXAMINATION BY MR. HUNTER:

Q Mr. Yanagisawa, I wonder if you could describe that rug? A: Well, it was in the front parlour room. I don't see how it possibly could have been stolen because we left 20 the house in the care of the person named, a girl that used to go to high school with my sister. They were pretty good friends and their parents were hard up for a house at that time and they moved into the house. That is not explaining the rug very well, but I couldn't tell you the exact size of anything. It was an ordinary rug.

Q What type of a rug, do you know?

A It isn't a congoleum.

Q Was it a woolen rug? A: Yes, it was a 30 woolen rug.

Q Patterned or plain? A: Patterned.

Q What kind, do you know -- an Axminster? Do you know the type? A: I am afraid not.

Q It is a fair sized rug, 9 x 12. How much did you pay for it? A: That is another thing, I don't think I could even come close to because it would be just guessing.

Q How old was it, do you remember?

A I can give it to you approximately. We bought that house -- it would be about two years old.

Q Bought about 1939 or 1940? A: Yes, around there. That is roughly around 1939 or 1940.

Q You bought it new, did you? A: Yes, brand new.

Q This foot stool, what was it?

A It was just about three feet square. No, about three feet long and a foot and a half square. It stood about eight inches off the ground.

Q What covering was on it?

A A light wool like carpet.

Q It was upholstered? A: Yes, it was upholstered.

Q Do you remember what you paid for it, and when you bought it? A: I am afraid not.

Q And the congoleum rug that was stolen, what about that? Do you know how much you paid for it and when you bought it? A: I think we paid $15.00 for it. I can remember the price pretty clearly, but on that one when we were rolling it up it was cold that day and we had it rolled up about three-quarters of the way and it just snapped right there, and as far as the value of it goes I don't think it would be quite up to par. I wouldn't pay very much for that, although it isn't my figures I have put down. My dad put the figures down.

Q You think he was probably a bit high on that one?

A He may have been, yes. Of course it is for my dad.

Q Was he there when it was rolled up?

10 A He was there when we were rolling it up and it snapped.

Q What about this typewriter? Do you know the model and age of it? A: I know it was a Remington but the model and type, I don't know.

Q Was it bought new, do you know?

A Brand new, yes.

Q When? A: I don't know, but I know when -- I know where we purchased it. It was at the corner of Hastings and Richards, just 20 a few doors up from Hastings and Richards.

Q You have no idea when you bought it?

A No.

Q Was it new or old? Was it a fairly recent acquisition? A: Fairly recent.

Q How many years, would you say?

A About three years.

Q Who used it? A: My dad used it and my sister. She was taking a commercial course and she used it.

30 MR. HUNTER: Subject to the reservation about the credits, my lord, I don't think there is anything further.

THE COMMISSIONER: What is your position with regard to the typewriter? Do you accept the claimant's statement that the typewriter was left in the house, or are you likely to have any evidence in regard to it?

MR. HUNTER: I shouldn't like to commit myself irretrievably. It might be that this tenant took it, in which case it is the claimant's tenant. I don't think we are responsible for the claimant's tenant.

THE COMMISSIONER: All right, we will leave that.

MR. FISHER: It might be noted for the record in connection with that, that the tenant seems to have been quite honest in turning things in. You will see there are just two or three items missing from a long list of things like that which speaks quite well for both parties concerned or for all parties concerned, the tenant, the Custodian and everybody else.

THE COMMISSIONER: Mr. Hunter, Mr. Fisher has said the values were shown on the J.P. form. Am I to take it that you do not question that statement? that some values are shown on the J.P. form that are now claimed?

MR. HUNTER: I am sorry, my lord, I didn't hear him say that. I presume, if he says that, it is so.

MR. FISHER: I think if my learned friend looks, it will compare with the figures we have added to the analysis form.

MR. HUNTER: There is a schedule for figures on the J.P. form. I am sure my friend wouldn't say it unless it was there.

THE COMMISSIONER: There is no need in the circumstances, then, to file a J.P. form.

MR. HUNTER: Not unless my friend wishes it. I can file it at any time.

MR. FISHER: No. As long as my learned friend agrees on it, that is the only thing.
