SUSPECT SOUGHT IN HATCHET SLAYING

Widespread search for a third Japanese believed by city detectives to have important information regarding the mysterious slaying early Monday morning of Naoichi Watanabe, Japanese fisherman, 629 Cordova Street, is being conducted by police.

Two compatriots of the dead man, whose body was discovered on the C.P.R. right-of-way near the plant of the American Can Company, are already being held for investigation.

Medical examination of the body has led Dr. K. D. Panton, police surgeon, and detectives detailed to the case to believe the murder had been committed elsewhere and the body carried to the spot where it was found in an endeavor to mislead police into believing the man had been hit by a train.

Heart Balm of $10,000 Sought by Vancouver Hindu

Claim by Bissa, Hindu, 1717 West Second Avenue, against Partab Singh, fellow-countryman, for $10,000 heart balm, alleging alienation of his wife's affections, Tejhour, struck a snag when move was made at trial of the action today before Mr. Justice Fisher and a jury to take the case from the jury.

Failure of the petitioner to prove in legal form the marriage customs of India, was the ground on which Hamilton Read, counsel for the defense, made his bid for victory.

Eventually Mr. Justice Fisher adjourned the trial without calling the jury to the box, to enable him to consider the points raised by both sides.

Bissa is claiming damages against the co-respondent on grounds usually put forward in divorce trials, but is not asking the court for a decree of divorce.

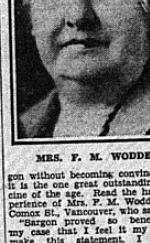
FEELS IT DUTY TO TELL OTHERS ABOUT SARGON

Digestive Troubles and Other Complications Quickly Ended, She States

No fair-minded man or woman can look into the face and read the honest, straightforward statements of the countless thousands of upright men and women who have been helped to better health by Sargon without becoming convinced that it is the one great outstanding medicine of the age. Read the happy experience of Mrs. F. M. Wodden, 1114 Cornwall St., Vancouver, who says:



MRS. F. M. WODDEN

"Sargon proved so beneficial in my case that I feel it my duty to make this statement. I suffered terribly from indigestion, weakness and nausea. Sometimes at night I would keep me awake until 3 o'clock in the morning and I'd also have a numb feeling in my fingers and toes from poor circulation. Often during the day I'd be seized with a terrible dizziness and no medicine I tried seemed to reach the source of my troubles.

"I was skeptical about Sargon when I started it, but it helped me so much I kept on till I'd taken six bottles. Now I'm over every trace of that stomach trouble; can sleep good until late in the mornings and don't have that dizziness or numb feeling anything like I used to.

"The Sargon Pills helped by keeping my bowels regular and are the most comfortable-acting laxative I've ever taken. My whole system is in healthier condition and I feel like a new woman."

Sargon may be obtained in Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores; in Victoria from all Owl Drug Stores; in New Westminster from Bews' Drug Store; in Sidney from Sidney Pharmacy, and in Jubilee, Burnaby from Jubilee Drug Store, and in Nanaimo from Kennedy Drug Co. Adv.

HOUSE PASSES DAIRY MEASURE

Vote Goes 21-15 for Amendments to Milk Act

W. R. Rutledge said the bill was a real tie-up with the distribution merger. T. H. Kirk said he wished to defend independent farmers and demanded that the Government exert its authority by putting its foot down on "this coercive type of legislation."

BERRY ATTACKED

There were shouts of "Order" when Mr. Dick demanded that Mr. Berry withdraw from the House as one morbidly interested.

"There is nothing to that," said Mr. Twigg. "Mr Berry has shown great restraint in this matter."

A motion by Mr. Rutledge to stand the bill over was defeated.

VENDORS EXCLUDED

An extraordinar situation arose on the debate on the produce vendor clause.

T. H. Kirk and others insisted the bill was to prevent these men from carrying on their ordinary business.

"I can't say any more definitely than the words in the bill itself that this clause is here for the specific purpose of removing these people from the Act," said Mr. Berry. "If we do not pass it then these produce vendors will have to pay the levy."

"You can't get away with it," shouted Jack Louter.

"That is a threat that the law will not be obeyed," reproved Mr. Berry.

"It comes in bad taste from a lawmaker."

Supporters to the bill found it necessary to stale over and over again that Victoria and outside areas were not being brought under the Act and could not be brought. Later H. D. Twigg said the "Octopus" could compel Victoria to come in by economic pressure.

VICTORIA. March 31.—Fraser Valley Dairy Co-operatives fared better than Okanagan Fruit Co-operatives at the hands of the Legislature, Monday.

Despite repeated points of order taken by Jack Louter, North Vancouver, and H. D. Twigg, Victoria, J. W. Berry was permitted by the House to reintroduce his Bill to amend the Dairy Products Sales Adjustment Act. The amendments were only a pale shadow of the original Bill, but as finally presented late Monday, Mr. Speaker Duff held that they had avoided the objections which he had taken in the first place.

Mr. Louter sought to have the Bill again referred to the House Committee on Agriculture, but after a three-hour debate lasting till past midnight the House by a vote of 21 to 15, with a substantial group absenting themselves from the division, voted to give the measure its second reading. It goes to committee today for consideration clause by clause.

POWERS CLARIFIED

The governing condition which enabled the Bill to get by was that the Dairy Sales Act is already on the statute books and the proposed amendments merely clarify the powers already possessed by the Committee of Adjustment. Vancouver members were divided on the issue.

Lined up with Mr. Louter to defeat the Bill were Messrs. Rutledge, Hanna, Dick, Kirk, Kergin, Alexander, Hegerle, Walker, Hayward, Twigg, MacIntosh, Mitchell, Cornett, Shelly.

For the Bill were Messrs. Carson, Uphill, Pearson, Gillis, Gray, Kingston, Berry, Wrinch, Sutherland, Pattullo, Spencer, Maitland, Bruhn, Jones, Tolmie, Pooley, Hinchliffe, MacNaughton, Scofield, Atkinson and Lougheed.

Messrs. MacKenzie, Fitzsimmons, MacPherson, Borden, Lister, Manson, Buckham, M. Manson, Beatty, Brahn and W. A. McKenzie were out of the House when the vote was taken.

Mr. Louter claimed the amendments were so innocuous as had been represented when it was sought to reintroduce the bill which the Speaker had ruled out.

COST OF FARMERS

They compelled farmers to take tests which cost $4 each as often as the Committee of Adjustment sought, he

They compelled reduction to be made from the producers' cheque by the distributor as the distributor did not pay the adjustment levy. They now gave the Adjustment Committee power to force a producer to pay the levy or they could take him to court.

He claimed it was not confined to the Fraser Valley by the interpretation of distributor, which left the Act applicable to any part of British Columbia. The Committee could demand anything from anybody. The Committee had unlimited power in deciding the spread when they determined what should be the profit of the distributors and then levied adjustments on the producer.

"The Committee assumed as much powers," he said, "as the Legislature itself."

From that point the debate for and against proceeded with Conservative members clashing and Liberal members on their own side sharply as their opinions differed.

FAIR TRIAL URGED

Hon. R. L. Maitland led most of the Conservative members when he said he had opposed the bill when it was first introduced, was against the principle, but the amendments were to make an existing act more workable. The act should have a fair trial since it had been placed on the statute books; and for that reason he was in favor of the bill being given second reading.

William Dick opposed the bill. It forced a pool and imposed a levy, he said. The people of Vancouver were opposed. He had a telegram from Chilliwack against it.

"If it gets a test in the courts that is the last you will hear of it," he said. He asked other Vancouver members to vote against it.

H. D. Twigg claimed it contained the same clauses on which the Speaker had thrown out the Central Selling Bill and tried to adjourn the debate for the Speaker to give a ruling on the point.

After an adjournment the Speaker returned to differ with Mr. Twigg and the debate proceeded.

Capt. MacGregor MacIntosh opposed the bill. In spite of assurance to the contrary, he was not sure as drafted that Salt Spring Island or other shipping points outside the area shipping to Vancouver were free from the levy.

NO FORCE INTENDED

Mr. Berry assured him there was no intention to force anyone outside the Fraser Valley under the act, or to demand levies from them. The original act gave them this power because there was fear of a U.S.A. concern coming in. The same power was not in the new bill.

H. W. Cornett, South Vancouver, opposed such amendments being brought in so late in the session.

George Heggie, North Okanagan, spoke along similar lines. He thought powers sought were too great. The threat of compulsion would spell the death knell of the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association.

"It is the same old wolf with a little sheep's clothing," was the opinion of W. R. Rutledge, Burnaby.

Hon. R. L. Maitland said the principle was the same as in the original. Supplementary powers to properly enforce the Act were all that was desired.

Attorney General Pooley thought the amendments were innocuous but the procedure in this case was in the Central Selling Bill had been entirely against the rules. No committee would ever again consider such a measure. Any bill had been referred to it as long as he was attorney general, he announced.

NOTICE TOO SHORT

W. C. Shelly said the amendments were highly contentious and complicated and should not be considered on such short notice. Before the Committee sought were too numerous and too drastic. Mr. Shelly was not prepared to follow the lead of Mr. Maitland.

"That is just about all we are asked to do," he said. "We are not following the lead. "When in doubt do nothing. It is all very well to speak of 3000 farmers in Fraser Valley being in favor. What about the 250,000 people in Vancouver and all the independent farmers against it. Had they farmers been consulted as to the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association against it?"

Hon. N. S. Loughheed "followed the lead" of Mr. Maitland. Vancouver's milk was up to standard and the cheapest of any in Canada except London, Ont., he said.

G. K. MacNaughton, Conservative, Comox, supported the bill.

Hon. William Atkinson also supported, saying an orderly and successful market was assured under the Act.

Col. Nelson Spencer, Vancouver, who subsequently voted for the bill, argued against making any change in the Act as it stood.

As a member of the Agricultural Committee, Dr. J. J. Gillis thought the amendments were necessary to make the Act more workable.

LIBERTY AND DOLLARS

"Liberty is more than dollars. He who grasps at much loses all," said T. H. Kirk (Vancouver). He opposed to put further shackles around the independents who exercise initiative and energy. Will would the Fraser Valley Farmers say if citizens of Vancouver demanded the same trading arrangements, that they should be paid for their milk in goods? Why give them power to encircle Vancouver as the Act gives for the benefit of the Fraser Valley farmer? He complimented the Speaker on his decisions on this and the Central Sales Act.

"You have given a decision, Mr. Speaker, which marks the turning of the tide in this class of legislation," he said. "You will be applauded by the public, who believe in liberty of action and the freedom of the individual."

The Act was vicious in principle, he said. Originally it was for the relief of the dairy farmers. Now it was planned to extend it to anyone handling milk.

Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe claimed the bill embraced nobody outside the Fraser Valley area.

AMOS ANDY AND

Thomas Uphill thought a lot of members did not know what they were talking about. He had tried to adjourn the debate until he could confer with Amos and Andy of radio fame, one of whom had a bill which he would deliver to any point f.o.b. In the meantime, as the session was drawing to a close, he asked the Speaker if he could borrow that wood, a fruit constituency; Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Hon. R. W. Bruhn and Hon. J. W. Jones, all Okanagan members; and Hon. R. L. Maitland, who has lent his assistance to the Fraser Valley Dairy industry in getting the amendment to the Dairy Sales Adjustment Act before the House.

GROWERS' BILL IS VOTED DOWN

Following is the division:

To keep the bill out of the House: Tolmie, Hinchliffe, Leesheed, Atkinson, Howe, Shelly, Cornett, Twigg, Hayward, Schofield, Walkem, Spencer, MacNaughton, Heggie, Mitchell, Alward, MacIntosh, Kirk, Dick, Louter, Carson, Rutledge—23.

To vote the bill a hearing—Lister, Pattullo, Kingston, W. A. McKenzie, Jones, Bruhn, Maitland, A. M. Manson, Sutherland, Kergin, Wrinch, Uphill, Hanna, Pearson, Gillis, Gray—16.

Absentees—Berry, Fitzsimmons, R. Mackenzie, MacPherson, Borden, Buckham, M. Manson, Beatty—8.

The division was the closest that any member Tolmie has been taking office in maintaining the official attitude of the Government.

A notable feature was the fact that after the week-end discussion making clear the power of the House to waive over the rules by over-ruling the Speaker, Messrs. Jones, Bruhn and Maitland, who voted with the Premier on the earlier division to keep the bill out, switched this time to the side of the co-operatives.

Following is the text of the Speaker's decision:

SPEAKER'S RULING

"The honorable and gallant member for Creston has asked leave to introduce an Act entitled 'An Act Respecting Fruit and Vegetable Industry and the Central Sale of Fruits and Vegetables.'

"I have had the opportunity of perusing this bill and I find that it is, in all respects in accordance with the irregularities which I ruled out the previous Bill No. 77, the same Bill, and the question arises as to whether a Bill ruled out of order by the Speaker can be again introduced without the elimination of the objectionable matter.

"It is a well-established rule of parliamentary practice that no question or motion can regularly be offered upon which the judgment of the House has been expressed during the current session (Bourinot, 4th Ed., P. 345). That there can be no appeal to the House from my decision on Bill No. 77, it is possible that the honorable gentleman is not entitled to ask leave to introduce his Bill, at, under these circumstances, no decision of the House would have been obtained.

"The circumstances are, however, that the House has upheld the decision of the Speaker that the matters ruled out of order prevent the bill from being proceeded with. It would be, therefore, in my view, an unprecedented reversal of the determination of the House should the House now permit the introduction of a bill which the House has decided is out of order.

THE MILK ACT

"In the case of Bill No. 79, 'An Act to Amend the Dairy Products Sales Adjustment Act,' this bill was ruled out of order on the grounds stated in my previous decision. In that case, also, the honorable member for Creston has re-introduced his bill under the same title, but in his new bill there was expunged a portion which I had ruled out as objectionable matter for which his original bill was ruled out of order. I think, therefore, he was entitled to bring in his new bill.

"I am unable, however, in the light of my consideration, to allow the new bill proposed by the honorable and gallant member for Creston to be introduced.

"The Crown, through the Prime Minister, has expressed its consent that this bill be introduced, reserving to itself, however, the right to object to any measures for which it might be held responsible.

AFFRONT TO HOUSE

"I am of the opinion, however, that this consent cannot now overcome the rule that a question upon which the House has expressed an opinion cannot be revived during this session. To attempt to introduce the bill with all its previous irregularities would, in my opinion, be at once an affront to the Legislature and an abuse of the rules and customs of the House.

"I, therefore, must advise the House that the objection of the honorable Minister of Lands is well taken and that the bill cannot be proceeded with."

A meeting of Ward Seven Ratepayers will be held today, at 8 p.m., in the auditorium of the Charles Tickens School, Glen Drive and East Seventeenth Avenue, for election of officers.

Port Due's Protest Nets Federal Plea For 'Broad Spirit'

NEW WESTMINSTER, March 31.—The city council Monday night was told by E. Hawken, assistant deputy minister of marine, that the development of the port must not be approached in a narrow municipal spirit but rather along broad national lines.

Mr. Hawken added that no application for increased port dues had been made and when such increase was necessary it must be accomplished by a bylaw and the city notified accordingly.

The department, he said, has confidence that the harbor board will not recommend any action to welfare of their port.
