24 YEARS, 15 LASHES GIVEN FOR HOLDUPS

PRISONER'S YOUNG WIFE COLLAPSES

Shorter Sentences and the Lash, Judge Rules

NEW WESTMINSTER, June 24.—Sentences pronounced by Mr. Justice Murphy for six convictions at the Royal City Assizes totalled 24 years and 15 lashes. They were distributed as follows:

John McDonald, 36, and Edgar Alexander McLennan, 46, five years in the penitentiary for attempted holdup of W. H. Williams, Fort Moody mail carrier.

Gordon Robinson, 25, and Leslie Jones, 22, three years and five lashes; and Fraser McDougall, 22, five years, for the hold up of Fraser Mills Chinese and theft of $1096.

Henri Fortier, 29, Reco Hotel, Vancouver, three years and five lashes for the attempted holdup of North Burnaby branch, Bank of Montreal.

The court room was crowded when Mr. Justice Murphy declared that the crime of holdup with violence has become too prevalent.

Shorter sentences accompanied by the lash is the only effective method of curtailing it, as he realized that the youth of today must be taught that crime does not pay.

When Fraser McDougall took the stand for sentence and was asked if he had anything to say, the companion of the late Billy Wilcox in the sensational break from Oakalla jail this spring, declared:

"I think I have got enough. Already I have been sentenced to four years and suffered ten lashes. That is enough for anyone."

The five-year sentence imposed for the Fraser Mills holdup and theft on December 23 will run concurrently with the sentence already imposed for jail breaking.

Robinson and Jones reiterated their plea of innocence and winced visibly when five strokes of the lash were added to their sentence.

Fortier's young wife collapsed when he was committed for three years with five lashes and was assisted from the court by women spectators.

In sentencing tones, McDonald's "Thank you" rang out, when the judge imposed what he said was the minimum penalty for the attempted mail robbery of which he had been found guilty with McLennan.

GROUP PAVING SYSTEM URGED

The question of undertaking paving works in groups or districts instead of by individual isolated contracts, was left to the discretion of the city engineer by the Civic Board of Works, which met this morning to discuss the report of the special committee on paving costs.

Only two clauses of the report were dealt with when the meeting adjourned.

The first clause recommended grouping paving work according to districts to ensure, as far as possible, continuity of operations over a long period.

City Engineer Charles Brakenridge reported this had been done as far as possible for the past two years. The larger the amount of work offered, the better the price per square yard, he said.

The second clause recommended that the maintenance guarantee period of five years be reduced to one year. The special committee considered that with efficient inspection the cost of maintenance for the first five years should be practically nil.

Mr. Brakenridge pointed out that it would only mean a saving of two cents per square yard on the cost of the work if the five-year maintenance bond were eliminated.

"In my opinion the protection the city gets for that extra two cents is the best investment the city has."

Ald. F. J. McRae suggested that tenders might be called for paving with and without the maintenance bond in order to find out the saving.

It was decided to leave the guarantee as it is for the present and call for alternative bids later.

Winner of Scholarship

GEORGE A. (BILL) GALE

Son of Ex-mayor and Mrs. R. H. Gale, who passed his 1931 exams at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Canada's leading law school, with high honors, has been awarded a scholarship, according to word received by his parents. He graduated from the University of Toronto in 1929 with honors and, as indicated this year, is maintaining his splendid record at Osgoode.

'RIDES' FOR CHILDREN ON PRINCESS ELAINE

Modern ocean liners may boast of their talkie theatres, modern gymnasiums and other forms of amusement for passengers at sea, but it remained for the C.P.S.S. Princess Elaine, plying between Vancouver and Nanaimo, to inaugurate the first sea-going "merry-go-round" for children.

The Elaine is equipped with a large turntable for conveniently "spotting" automobiles on the automobile deck. Recently a number of children on a picnic discovered its more frivolous uses, and with the aid of ships' officers quickly transformed the prosaic business-like turntable into a gaily decorated merry-go-round, complete with gay streamers and deck chairs for youthful passengers.

The merry-go-round has now become a regular fun provider for little travelers on the Elaine.

FINNISH MAIDEN WINS HEART-BALM

Hilda Kenita, 24, attractive little Finnish maiden living at 1141 West Thirty-third Avenue, has been awarded $500 heart balm by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald against Teodar Peltakaski, 26, mill worker of Barnet.

The action in which she alleged breach of promise of marriage, was undefended, the trial consisting simply of proof tendered by the plaintiff of money expended by her on traveling expenses from Finland to Vancouver.

She said she became engaged to Peltakaski in Finland on March 6, 1929, and that he reiterated his promise in several letters after he came to Vancouver.

She arrived here intending to marry him, December 8, 1929, only to find that he had become attached to another girl.

She said she borrowed money, to reach Vancouver on Peltakaski's promise to pay it back.

E. J. Grant acted for the plaintiff.

'Law Has Become Expensive Luxury Beyond Reach of Poor'

By THOMAS CHAMPION

Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 24.—"English judicial procedure, although the most nearly perfect of its kind in the world, has become an expensive luxury beyond the means of the majority of the people," declares a report issued by the General Council of the Bar, the austere body which supervises the conduct and deportment of barristers.

"Counsels' fees loom large in the public's eye as an item in the cost of litigation," the report said, "but it cannot be too strongly emphasized that the services of thoroughly competent though perhaps not well-known barristers are always available for ordinary cases at very moderate fees.

"These fees indeed are lower than for analogous services in other professions."

Admiralty Gives Names of Victims Of Factory Blast

LONDON, June 24.—The Admiralty last night issued the official list of the ten killed in the explosion which occured in the Royal Naval cordite factory at Holton Peats, six miles from the seaport of Poole, near Bournemouth, in Dorsetshire.

It was the worst mishap of the kind in England since the notorious explosion at Silvertown, in London, during the war.

The official list of dead: E. W. Blair, chemist; E. Norton, foreman; W. J. Brown, assistant foreman; P. C. Lowman, T. F. Henderson, W. Vivian, W. J. Hickma, C. O. Gutt, R. Grover, E. R. Taylor, all nitro-glycerine workers.

The disaster originated in a shed in which the process known as nitrating, the hazardous business of mixing chemical compounds, was being conducted. No trace of this shed nor of the workers in it remained after the blast.

TRIAL FOLLOWS BLAZE IN STORE

Two Plead 'Not Guilty' in Conspiracy to Defraud Charge

Charged with conspiracy to defraud the Ohio Farmers' Insurance Company between November 20 and December 12, 1930, as the result of a fire on the premises of M. Kaye, Limited, November 21 last, Edward Miller and Sidney Gresham appeared before Magistrate H. C. Shaw in Police Court this morning. Both pleaded "not guilty."

Story of the fire in M. Kaye, Limited, 37 West Hastings Street, was told by J. E. Morris of No. 1 Hall, who declared he was on the street when he noticed the blaze. He rushed to the scene and fought the fire until arrival of other firemen.

He swore that when he entered the building he saw Gresham standing with a second man inside the doorway and that Gresham refused to comply with the witness' plea for assistance in moving the stock. The fire, he said, was confined to a large packing box filled with excelsior.

Evidence of the issuance of a $3000 fire insurance policy to Gresham and the settling of a claim for $1857 as the result of the fire, was given by Herbert R. Fullerton, insurance and general agent.

Witness declared Miller acted in the matter of collecting the claim and said he knew Miller was connected with the Royal Financial Corporation and had often placed policies with him (witness).

The trial is proceeding.

Burglars Blamed For Garage Fire

ABBOTSFORD, June 24.—Burglars are blamed for an attempt to crack the safe of Brett's garage here and blamed for an early morning fire, which threatened to destroy the building. Smoke was seen coming from the garage at 6:20 a.m., and was found to be caused by rags and waste material burning in the safe. Local firefighters extinguished the blaze.

The burglars transferred from an old to a new car, license tates No. 59-786, and made their escape in it. Premises of the Union Oil Co. also were broken into during the night, and $1 taken from the cash register.

Rail Board O.K.'s Freight Changes

Modifications of freight classifications in Canada known to shippers and the railways as Supplement "I" to Classification 18, have been approved by the Board of Railway Commissioners and will take effect on July 6, according to advice received from Ottawa by the local office of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Negotiations for the changes have been under way since last December between the Canadian Freight Association, representing the railways, and committee representatives of shippers in all the provinces. Only three or four items were left to the railway commission for adjudication, it is reported.

ROTARY CLUB TO HONOR AGED SCIENTIST

BANFF SPRINGS, June 24.—Tuesday, June 30, N. B. Sanson, 68-year-old Government Meteorological Observer of Banff, will make his one thousandth official ascent to the observatory on the lofty peak of Sulphur Mountain, 9000 feet directly above the Banff Springs Hotel, and situated at an altitude of 8500 feet.

The first rosy fingers of the next morning's dawn will reveal on that bare pinnacle a strange ceremony.

To do honor to Mr. Sanson, the Banff Rotary Club, of which he is a member, have arranged to hold an anniversary breakfast there.

The party will leave Banff Springs Hotel at midnight and, as a bridle path exists to within a few hundred yards of the top, the majority will use ponies to make the ascent.

Not so Mr. Sanson, for, despite his almost seventy years, he still scorns the use of anything but his own legs for the ascent of any mountain.

Three prizes will be awarded for best-kept boulevards. There will be three sections in the gardening competition; gardens with 50-foot frontages, less than 50-feet frontage, and the most beautiful garden, regardless of size.

Patent Rights Claims in Court

Dispute over patent rights for a concrete mixing and pouring machine is being aired at trial of action before Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald in which Hugh Parks Parks, inventor of Oakland, Calif., is plaintiff and George W. Ledingham, contractor, 348 East Eighth Avenue is defendant.

The plaintiff claims he obtained letters patent for the machine on December 26, 1928, the patent being good for 18 years. He alleges the defendant has infringed these rights and is asking for an injunction and damages.

The defendant denies and infringement and disputes the plaintiff's claim to possessing sole rights to the machine.

C.J. Lennox is acting for the plaintiff and G. Roy Long for the defense.

Prospector Returns After Staking at Rainbow

It is too early yet to say just what the gold placer claims of Rainbow Creek and the Nation River district may amount to, according to Paul A. DesBrisay of the George Sparling sporting goods store, who has just returned from a brief staking trip to Rainbow Creek.

Few of the many claims, which now extend solidly up the creek for 18 miles, probably farther by this time, are being worked yet. The discovery claims of the Snell brothers, within a mile and a half of the mouth of the creek, are said to be yielding an ounce a day.

"Nobody is down to bedrock yet. In fact so little has been done that I would not venture to say more than that our party got what we consider good sample returns from panning on our eight claims which adjoin those of the Fister party, about 14 miles up the creek. We found fairly coarse gold and we are going to take a chance and work through the summer," said Mr. Desbrisay.

Belief of early prospectors that gold would be found only at the mouth of Rainbow Creek has been dissipated. Panning shows just as good values further up.

Mr. DesBrisay went in with Harry McKenzie, H. R. Montgomery and George Silke, the latter piloting McKenzie's seaplane. Silke, McKenzie and Montgomery have remained on the property to put up a cabin and get ready for working of the claims. The plane is being kept on a small lake about three miles away.

DesBrisay and Silke plan to return to Rainbow Creek and rejoin their partners about July 1. Mushing out to Fort St. James to record their claims, en route to Vancouver, they met on the trail about 30 argonauts, mostly old-timers of the Prince George and Fort St. James district.

At Fort St. James they met A. K. Money and his party who staked later beyond the DesBrisay party. Money is having lumber and other equipment freighted in and plans to establish a permanent camp.

Former residents of Heward, Stoughton and District, Sask., will hold their annual basket picnic in Stanley Park, near the pavilion, at 11 a.m., July 1.
