DRAFT FACTUM

IN THE MATTER OF A REFERENCE AS TO THE VALIDITY OF ORDERS-IN-COUNCIL OF THE 15th DAY OF DECEMBER 1945, (P.C. 7355,7356 & 7357) IN RELATION TO PERSONS OF THE JAPANESE RACE FACTUM OF THE CO-OPERATIVE COMMITTEE ON JAPANESE CANADIANS

PART I

10 By Order-in-Council P.C. 45 of the 8th day of January 1946, the following question was referred to the Court for hearing and consideration, namely:

"Are the Orders-in-Council dated the 15th day of December 1945, being P.C. 7355, 7356 and 7357, ultra vires of the Governor in Council either in whole or in part and, if so, in what particular or particulars and to what extent?

The Orders-in-Council purport to be passed under the authority of the War Measures Act R.S.C. 1927, Chapter C206 "by reason of the War." P.C. 7355 provides that the Minister 20 of Labour may make Orders for the "deportation" to Japan of the following classes of persons.

1. Nationals of Japan resident in Canada who since December 8th 1941, made a request for repatriation, or who were detained as of September 1st 1945 under the provisions of the Defence of Canada Regulations Order P.C. 946 of February 5th, 1943 as amended by P.C. 5637 August 16, 1945.

2. Every naturalized British Subject of the Japanese race resident in Canada who has made a request for repatriation provided that such person has not revoked in writing such request 30 before midnight on September 1st, 1945.

3. Natural born British Subjects of the Japanese race resident in Canada who made a request for repatriation provided that such person has not revoked in writing such request before the Minister makes an Order for "deportation."

4. The wives and children under 16 years of age of any person for whom the Minister makes an Order for "deportation."

The requests for repatriation which were in the form printed in the Appendix to this Factum, are to be deemed final and irrevocable, except as provided in regard to clauses 2 and 3 above.

P.C. 7356 provides that any person being a British Subject by naturalization under the Naturalization Act R.S.C. 1927, Chapter 138 who is deported from Canada under the provisions of P.C. 7355, shall as and from the date upon which he leaves Canada in the course of such deportation, cease to be either a British Subject or a Canadian National.

P.C. 7357 provides for the appointment of a commission of three persons to make inquiry concerning the activities, loyalty
10 and extent of co-operation with the Government of Canada during the war of Japanese Nationals and naturalized persons of the Japanese race in cases referred to the commission by the Minister of Labour for investigation with a view to recommending whether such person should be deported.

The commission is further empowered to inquire at the request of the Minister of Labour into the case of any naturalized British Subject of the Japanese race who has made a request for repatriation, and make recommendations. Any person of the Japanese race who is recommended by the commission for 20 deportation, is subject to deportation under the provisions of P.C. 7355. Where any person is recommended for deportation persuant to this Order, he shall as and from the date on which he leaves Canada in the course of such deportation, cease to be either a British Subject or a Canadian National.

The National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945, provides that for the purpose of the War Measures Act, the war is deemed to have ceased as of January 1st, 1946, and the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act 1945, comes into force on that date. In purported pursuance of its terms, the Governor in 30 Council passed P.C. 7414 on the 28th day of December, 1945 purporting to continue in full force and effect, all Orders and Regulations lawfully made under the War Measures Act in force immediately before January 1, 1946.

PART II

Counsel for the Co-operative Committee on Japanese Canadians will submit that the question referred to the Court should be answered as follows:

1. The Orders-in-Council P.C. 7355, 7356 and 7357 are wholly ultra vires of the Governor in Council.

PART III

ARGUMENT

The impugned Orders-in-Council purport to be an exercise by the Governor in Council of the delegated powers conferred upon him by reason of War under the terms of Section 3 of the War Measures Act R. S.C. 1927 Chapter 206 in the following terms.

"The Governor in Council may do and authorize such acts and things and make from time to time such Orders and Regulations as he may by reason of the existence of real or apprehended war, invasion or insurrection, deem necessary or advisable for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada." These words taken by themselves confer the widest and most conprehensive legislative powers upon the Governor in 10 Council. They are, however, restricted by the qualifying context to use the language of Duff J., (in re Gray, 57 S.C.R. at 168) and are subject to the specific provisions of the Statute (Reference as to validity of the Regulations in relation to Chemicals 1943 S.C.R., 1.)

The qualifying context and specific provisions relevant in this case are to be found in the later words of the same section which read: "and for greater certainty but not so as to restrict the generality of the foregoing terms, it is hereby declared that the powers of the Governor in Council shall extend to all matters coming with-20 in the classes of subjects hereinafter enumerated that is to say,-(b) arrest, detention, excusion and "deportation." The word "deportation" means "the forcible removal of aliens" (Fong-Yue-Ting vs. U.S.) 149 U.S. 698 at 709, Webster's Dictionary page 599 Attorney General for Canada vs Cain. 1906 A.C. 542 at 546. The word "deportation" is not apt to describe the sending to Japan of Canadian citizens who were either born in Canada or born in other parts of the world and naturalized in Canada and who have no connection with Japan other than that of "race." Deportation is the return of an alien to the country from whence 30 he came and not the exile or banishment of a citizen to an alien country.

Section 3 of the War Measures Act should therefore be read as follows:

"The powers of the Governor in Council shall extend to all matters coming within the classes of subject hereinafter enumerated that is to say (b) "arrest, detention, exclusion, and the forcible removal of aliens to their country of origin."

Admittedy the purpose of the enumeration of classes of subjects in Section 3 was not to cut down the generality of the 40 powers conferred by the broad language of the opening clause so as to require the operation of the ejusdem generis rule (in re Gray, supra,) but the purpose of the enumeration was, however, in respect at least to the enumerated classes of subjects themselves, to indicate that the powers of the Governor in Council "could go even thus far" (per Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, C.J. in re Gray 57 S.C.R. page 158,) or to indicate "marginal instances" (per Duff, J. ibidem page 168,) or "cases in which there might be such doubt that it was better to mention them specifically" (per Anglin, J. ibidem 177.) It is respectfully submitted that Parliament in saying that the forcible removal of aliens to the country of their origin is to be regarded as a "marginal instance" as to which there might be doubt, clearly indicated that the forcible removal of British subjects to a foreign country was regarded as beyond the line, beyond doubt, and very much further than the margin.

There are several rules of interpretation which support the 10 contention here advanced. Where there is ambiguity, a statute even in war time shoud be interpreted in favour of the liberty of the subject and the previous policy of the law.

The banishment of subjects by any court or body for any other reason than conviction of felony is expressly prohibited under heavy penalties by Habeas Corpus Act 31, Charles II, Chapter 2, section 60, R vs. Halliday 1917 A.C. 260 at 274, and Liversedge vs Anderson 1942 A.C., at page 244.

There is also a presumption that Parliament does not assert or assume jurisdiction which goes beyond the limits established 20 by the common consent of nations, (Halsbury Second Edition, volume 31, page 509). That the banishment of nationals particularly on racial grounds, is contrary to the accepted principles if International Law may be gathered from Attorney General of Canada vs Cain, 1906 A.C. 542 at 546. There are recent developments in the field of International Law by which the deportation of civilian population on racial grounds is regarded as a crime against humanity, See 23 Canadian Bar Review, page 754 and particularly 756 and 757. Public policy in respect to racial discrimination is discussed in re Drummond Wren 1945 O.R. 778.

302. At the time the War Measures Act was passed in 1914 and also when it was consolidated in 1927, the Parliament of Canada could not have delegated power to the Governor in Council to make laws or regulations repugnant to any act of the Imperial Parliament extending to the Dominion of Canada, as it could not have done so itself. (Colonial Laws Validity Act 29-30 Vict. (Imp.) Chapter 63 S 2). Various provisions of the Orders-in-Council are repugnant to the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act 4-5 George V, C.17. In particular the discriminating provisions of Section 2 of P.C. 7355 are repugnant to Section 403 (1) of the Act; the provisions of P.C. 7356 and the provisions of 7357 which purport to deprive naturalized British Subjects of their status as British Subjects for no cause other than that they have signed a request not revoked, before a given date, or because the extent of their co-operation with the Government of Canada during war is deemed unsatisfactory by the commission appointed by the Government, are repugnant to Section 7 &8, 13-16 of the Imperial Act which deals with loss of nationality. The provisions in respect to the wives and children of naturalized Canadians who are deported and who are to lose their status without any option, are inconsistent with and are repugnant to Sections 10, 11 and 12 of the Imperial Act.

Part II of the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act was only to apply to the Dominion of Canda, if adopted by the "legislature" of that Dominion, (Section 9). The Parliament of Canada did adopt the Act (4-5 George V, C44 and 5 George V C7). 10 Fhe Act is therefore an act to which the Colonial Laws Validity Act applies.

It is clear that if the Parliament of Canada did not have the power to make laws repugnant to the Imperial Statute, it could not delegate such power and could not be assumed to have attempted to do so.

Since the passing of the Statute of Westminister by the Imperial Parliament in 1931, the Parliament of Canada could in matters within its competence make laws repugnant to the Imperial Statute. Parliament, however has not since 1931 re-enacted the War Measures Act which is still therefore, subject to the Colonial Laws Validity Act and the Orders-in-Council themselves are not "laws made after the commencement of this Act by the Parliament of the Dominion." They do not therefore fall within the provisions of Section 2 of the Statute of Westminister.

The Orders-in-Council throughout depend upon the persons affected being in fact of the "Japanese race." It would be the duty of the Court on any application for Habeas Corpus to determine the issue as to whether or not any particular individual was "of the Japanese race." Eshugbayi Eleko vs Government of 30 Nigeria 1931 A.C. at 670. The phrase "Japanese race" is so vague as to make the provisions unenforceable.

The text book authorities quoted in the Appendix hereto indicate that the word "race" is not definable in scientific terms and has not any precise meaning. It is a hypothetical group inferred to have existed in the past. Provisions in a will in regard to the "Jewish race" have been held to be void for uncertainty, Clayton vs Ramsden 1943 A.C. 320 referred to in re Drummond Wren 1945, O.R. 778 at 786.

It is true that Parliament has delegated legislative power 40 to the Governor in Council, but such power is not exercised by passing what purport to be orders and regulations so vague, as to unenforceable, and meaningless.

4. The impugned Orders-in-Council deal with a matter which, in the absence of the emergency of war, would fall within the competence of the Legislatures of the Provinces, namely, property and civil rights, Section 92, Head 13, British North America Act. To restrain the liberty of the subject where there has been no crime committeed is beyond question an interference with civil right; per Robertson, C. J. O. in re McKenzie 1945 O.R. at 796. The Orders-in-Council are preventive in nature, and are not criminal law and do not fall within any of the ennumerated heads of section 91.

It is conceded that, by reason of war, a new aspect of the business of Government has arisen which justifies the Dominion 10 Parliament in encroaching on subject matters normally reserved exclusively to Provincial Legislatures. It is also conceded that these exceptional interferences may continue to be justified after actual war conditions have ceased, Fort Francis Pulp & Paper Co. vs Manitoba Free Press 1923, A.C. 695. The Parliament of Canada by enactment of the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act has recognized that the emergency of war which justified or required the enactment of the War Measures Act, ceased on the first day of January 1946. The recital to the Act, however indicates, that certain transitional powers require to be 20 exercised by the Governor in Council, and that it may be necessary for this purpose to continue certain orders and regulations made under the War Measures Act.

Parliament has by Section 2 (1) further defined what powers may be necessary to be exercised by reason of the continued emergency. Clause "b" of Section 3 the War Measures Act in regard to "arrest detention, exclusion and deportation" is entirely omitted from the new Act. It is submitted that this constitutes a declaration by Parliament and the clearest evidence that in respect to "deportation" there is no continuing necessity for 30 the exercise of extra-ordinary powers by the Governor in Council from January 1, 1946 by reason of the emergency of war or by reason of any continuing transitional "post-war" emergency.

The impugned Orders-in-Council do not continue any action deemed necessary by reason of the war. Actual hostilities with Japan concluded on or about the 25 th day of August 1945 (see proclamation Canada Gazette 1945, page 3704.) No orders or regulations in respect to the banishment of Canadian Nationals or British Subjects had been passed at that time or indeed at the time the National Transitional Emergency Powers Act was 40 passed, which declared that only transitional and continuing powers were necessary. Parliament must therefore be taken either not to have delegated to the Governor in Council, the power to legislate for "deportation" after January 1, 1946 or alternatively, Parliament could not authoriize the invasion of a provincial sphere which it had itself declared no longer necessary to be invaded by reason of the emergency of war or the transitional post-war emergency. Parliament itself has absolved the Courts from the inquiry upon which otherwise the Court might be loathe to enter, namely, as to whether there exists any emergency either my reason of war, or by reason of the transition from war to peace in respect to the subject matter of the impugned Orders-in-Council.

5. P.C. 7355, 7356, 7357 are a part of one legislative scheme. It is possible that the Governor in Council could have passed a valid Order-in-Council for the deportation of one of the 4 classes
10 referred to, namely the Japanese Nationals, but all of the provisions of the Orders are inter-dependent, and it is impossible to say that the Governor in Council would not have abandoned the whole scheme if parts of it had been known to be ultra vires. In re Alberta Statutes the Bank Taxation Act 1938, S.C.R. 100 at 123 and 132.

All of which is respectfully submitted by

THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN COUNCIL:

Whereas during the war particular measures with regard to persons of the Japanese race in Canada were made necessary by reason of their concentration along the Pacific coast of Canada;

10 And whereas experience during the war in the administration of Order in Council P.C. 946 of February 5, 1943, providing for the control of persons of the Japanese race has indicated the desirability of determining whether the conduct of such Japanese persons in time of war was such as to make the deportation of any of them desirable in the national interest;

And whereas it is deemed advisable to make provision for the appointment of a Commission to institute the investigation referred to above;

Therefore His Excellency the Governor General in Council, on the recommendation of the Prime Minister, and under the authority of the War Measures Act, Chapter 206 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1927, is pleased to order and 20 doth hereby order as follows:

1. A Commission consisting of three persons shall be appointed to make inquiry concerning the activities, loyalty and the extent of co-operation with the Government of Canada during the war of Japanese nationals and naturalized persons of the Japanese race in Canada in cases where their names are referred to the Commission by the Minister of Labour for investigation with a view to recommending whether in the circumstances of any such case such person should be deported.

2. Notwithstanding anything contained in the provisions of Order in Council P.C. 7355 of the 15th day of December, 1945, the Commission may, at the request of the Minister of Labour, inquire into the case of any naturalized British subject of the Japanese race who has made a request for repatriation and which request is final under the said Order in Council and may make such recommendations with respect to such case as it deems advisable.

3. The Commission shall report to the Governor in Council.

4. Any person of the Japanese race who is recommended by the Commission for deportation shall be deemed to be a person subject to deportation under the provisions of Order in Council P.C. 7355 of the 15th day of December, 1945, and the provisions thereof shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to such person.

5. Where any person is recommended for deportation pursuant to this Order he shall, as and from the date on which he leaves Canada in the course of such deportation, cease to be either a British subject or a Canadian national.

6. The Commission shall, for the purpose of all inquiries and investigations made pursuant to this Order, have all the powers and authority of Commissioners appointed under Part One of the Inquiries Act.

7. The Commission is authorized to engage the services of such clerks, reporters, assistants and counsel as they deem advisable to aid and assist in the performance of their duties.

8. The Commissioners shall be paid such remuneration, allowances and expenses as the Governor in Council may fix.

9. All expenses incurred in connection with the inquiries and investigation of the Commission pursuant to this Order, including the remuneration, allowances and expenses of the commissioners, shall be paid from amounts allowed from the War Appropriation to the Department of Labour for such purpose.

IN THE MATTER OF A REFERENCE AS TO THE VALIDITY OF ORDERS IN COUNCIL OF THE 15TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1945 (P.C. 7355, 7356, AND 7357), IN RELATION TO PERSONS OF THE JAPANESE RACE.

FACTUM OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The question for determination is whether Orders in Council dated the 15th day of December, 1945, being P.C. 7355, 7356, and 7357 are ultra 10 vires of the Governor in Council, either in whole or in part, and, if so, in what particular or particulars and to what extent. The Orders in Council are set out in the case, page —, and are made under the authority of the "War Measures Act," R.S.C. 1927, chap. 206. The question of their validity involves a consideration of "The National Emergency Transitional validity involves a consideration of " The National Emergency Act"), Powers Act, 1945" (hereinafter referred to as the "Emergency Act"), which was assented to on the — day of December, 1945, and which came into force on the 1st day of January, 1946. Section 4 of that Act provides:—

"Without prejudice to any other power conferred by this Act the "Governor-in-Council may order that the orders and regulations made "under the 'War Measures Act' or pursuant to authority created "under the said Act in force immediately before the day this Act comes "into force shall, while this Act is in force, continue in full force and "effect subject to amendment or revocation under this Act."

Section 5 provides:-

"This Act shall come into force on the first day of January one "thousand nine hundred and forty-six, and on and after that day the "war against Germany and Japan shall for the purposes of the 'War "Measures Act' be deemed no longer to exist."

30 Pursuant to the powers contained in section 4, the Governor in Council on the 28th day of December, 1945, passed Order in Council P.C. 7414 (case, p. ____), under which it is ordered that all orders and regulations lawfully made under the "War Measures Act" or pursuant to authority created under the said Act in force immediately before the day the "Emergency Act" comes into force, shall, while that Act is in force, continue in full force and effect subject to amendment or revocation under that Act. It is noted that this Order in Council purports also to be made pursuant to section 12 of the "Interpretation Act," which gives authority to make an Order in Council under an Act which is not yet in force, for the purpose of making the Act effective at the date of the commencement thereof. It will be seen therefore that, prima facie, Orders in Council Nos. 7355, 7356, and 7357 made under the "War Measures Act" are now in force pursuant to the provisions of the "Emergency Act" and P.C. 7414 made thereunder.

The validity of the Orders in Council in question depends upon, first, whether they were a valid exercise of the powers contained in the "War Measures Act" at the time they were passed—i.e., 15th December, 1945— 10 and second, whether they are now validly in force by virtue of the "Emergency Act " and the Order in Council made thereunder.

As to the first, there is now no doubt that the "War Measures Act" is within the legislative competence of the Dominion Parliament, re Gray, 57 s.C.R. 150; Fort Frances Pulp and Power Co. v. Manitoba Free Press S.C.R. 150; S.C.R. 1. The Fort Frances case is also authority for the exercise (1943), S.C.R. 1. The Fort Frances case is also authority for the exercise of the powers under the "War Measures Act" after the cessation of hosof the powers under the "War Measures Act" after the cessation of hosof the powers under the "War Measures Act" after the emergency The sole question for determination, therefore, is whether the emergency resulting from the war existed at the time the Orders in Council were passed. The emergency is stated in the preamble to Order in Council P.C. 7355 as follows:—

"Whereas during the course of the war with Japan certain Japa-"nese nationals manifested their sympathy with or support of Japan "by making requests for repatriation to Japan and otherwise;

" by making requests for repatriation to sapar and the requested "And whereas other persons of the Japanese race have requested " or may request that they be sent to Japan;

"And whereas it is deemed desirable that provisions be made to "deport the classes of persons referred to above;

"And whereas it is considered necessary by reason of the war, for "the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada, that pro-"vision be made accordingly."

This statement of fact must be taken to be conclusive. The Courts do not overrule the Government in a matter of this sort, except upon very clear evidence that it was wrong. On this point Lord Haldane in the Fort Frances case said, p. 706:—

"The effect of the economic and other disturbance occasioned "originally by the war may thus continue for some time after it is "terminated. The question of the extent to which provision for cir-"cumstances such as these may have to be maintained is one on which "a Court of law is loath to enter. No authority other than the central "government is in a position to deal with a problem which is essen-"tially one of statesmanship. It may be that it has become clear that "the crisis which arose is wholly at an end and that there is no justifi-"cation for the continued exercise of an exceptional interference which

" becomes ultra vires when it is no longer called for. In such a case "the law as laid down for distribution of powers in the ruling instru-"ment would have to be invoked. But very clear evidence that the "crisis had wholly passed away would be required to justify the "judiciary, even when the question raised was one of ultra vires which "it had to decide, in overruling the decision of the government that "exceptional measures were still requisite. In saying what is almost obvious, their Lordships observe themselves to be in accord with the "view taken under analogous circumstances by the Supreme Court of "the United States, and expressed in such decisions as that in Hamil-"ton v. Kentucky Distilleries Co. 251 U.S. 146."

See also the judgment of Sir Lyman Duff, C.J., in The Chemicals Reference (1943), S.C.R. 1, at p. 12, as follows:—

"I cannot agree that it is competent to any court to canvass the considerations which have, or may have, led him (the Governor-in-Council) to deem such regulations necessary or advisable for the transcendent objects set forth. The authority and the duty of passing on that question are committed to those who are responsible for the security of the country—the Executive Government itself, under, I repeat, its responsibility to Parliament. The words are too plain for dispute: the measures authorized are such as the Governor-in-Council (not the courts) deems necessary or advisable."

In A.G. v. Wilts United Dairies, 1922, 91 L.J.K.B. 897, an order of the Food Controller made in April, 1919, came into question, whereby he regulated the sale of milk by licence and imposed a charge of 2d. a gallon as a condition of granting a licence. It was held he had no authority to impose the licence fee. As stated by Lord Buckmaster, p. 700:—

"The only question here is, Were such powers granted?"

In Halliday's Case, 1917, A.C. 260, Lord Finlay, L.C., stated, p. 30 268-9:-

"It may be necessary in time of great public danger to entrust "great powers to His Majesty in Council, and that Parliament may do "so feeling certain that such powers will be reasonably exercised."

It is submitted, therefore, that with respect to the persons mentioned in the Orders in Council in question there existed a national emergency as a result of the war sufficient to justify the passage of the Orders in Council, and that this question is not now open to debate.

Apart from the question of the existence of a national emergency, the Orders in Council are a valid exercise of the powers of the Governor in 40 Council under the "War Measures Act" within the meaning of section 3 of that Act as an "order deemed necessary or advisable for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada" and comes within clause (b) of the said section—"Arrest, detention, exclusion and deportation," also clause (f)—"Appropriation, control, forfeiture and disposition of property and of the use thereof." The Act also provides that all orders made under section 3 shall have the force of law. On this point see Rinfret, J., as he then was, in the Chemicals Reference (supra), p. 17–8:—

"The powers conferred upon the Governor in Council by the 'War "Measures Act' constitute a law-making authority, an authority to "pass legislative enactments such as should be deemed necessary and "advisable by reason of war; and, when acting within those limits, "the Governor in Council is vested with plenary powers of legislation "as large and of the same nature as those of Parliament itself (Lord "Selborne in The Queen v. Burah, 1878, 3 A.C., 889). Within the "ambit of the Act by which his authority is measured, the Governor in "Council is given the same authority as is vested in Parliament itself. "He has been given a law-making power."

For these reasons it is submitted the Orders in Council were a valid exercise of the powers contained in the "War Measures Act" at the time they were passed.

With regard to the second branch of the question—i.e., the validity of the "Emergency Act" and P.C. 7414 made thereunder—it is convenient to 20 deal with the Order in Council first.

The preamble to the Order in Council shows the authority under which the Order is made and the enacting part of the Order follows closely the wording of the Act, so that assuming the Act to be valid there is no objection to the Order in Council.

As to the Act itself, under the reasoning of the Fort Frances case the only objection that can be raised against the Act is that there was no emergency in existence sufficient to justify the passing of the Act, and conversely it would appear that if it can be said that such an emergency existed the Act is valid. In this connection attention is called to the long recital in the

- 30 preamble to the Act setting out the nature of the emergency which existed at the time the Act was passed, and, as stated in the Fort Frances case and quoted above, very clear evidence would be required to justify the judiciary in overruling the decision of the Government that exceptional methods were still requisite. No such evidence is before the Court. It might be argued that the Government was exceeding its powers in passing an Act such as the Act in question some eight months after hostilities had ceased, but a close parallel can be found between the action of the Government in this respect and what was done at the conclusion of the first Great War in regard to paper control, which was the subject of the Fort Frances case.
- 40 In that case the impugned Orders in Council were made pursuant to an Act passed on the 7th of July, 1919, 9–10 Geo. V., chap. 63, some eight months after the cessation of hostilities, confirming and extending the powers, jurisdiction, and authority of the Commissioner and Controller of Paper to such extent as might be necessary to enable the Commissioner and Controller to fully complete all work and investigations begun by him under previous Orders in Council made under the "War Measures Act," and to determine all questions and to make all necessary orders with respect to matters begun or coming before them prior to the publication in the Canada Gazette of a proclamation that the war no longer existed. It further extended the powers of the Paper Control Tribunal to determine all matters pending at the declaration of peace and subsequent appeals, and further provided that except for the purpose of finally completing all matters undertaken and determining all questions arising prior to the declaration of peace the powers, authority, and jurisdiction of the Commissioner, Controller of Paper, and the Paper Control Tribunal should cease upon the The validity of that Act came 10 publication of the proclamation of peace. into question in the Fort Frances case, and after disposing of the constitutional issue in favour of the Dominion, Lord Haldane stated as follows, p. 705 - 6:-

"The other point which arises is whether such exceptional neces-"sity as must be taken to have existed when the war broke out, and "almost of necessity for some period subsequent to its outbreak, con-"tinued through the whole of the time within which the questions in "the present case arose.

"When war has broken out it may be requisite to make special "provision to ensure the maintenance of law and order in a country "even when it is in no immediate danger of invasion. Public opinion "may become excitable, and one of the causes of this may conceivably "be want of uninterrupted information in newspapers. Steps may " have to be taken to ensure supplies of these and to avoid shortage, and "the effect of the economic and other disturbance occasioned originally "by the war may thus continue for some time after it is terminated. ". . . When then, in the present instance, can it be said that the "necessity altogether ceased for maintaining the exceptional measure " of control over the newspaper print industry introduced while the war "was at its height? At what date did the disturbed state of Canada " which the war had produced so entirely pass away that the legislative "measures relied on in the present case became ultra vires? It is "enough to say that there is no clear and unmistakable evidence that "the government was in error in thinking that the necessity was still " in existence at the dates on which the action in question was taken by "the Paper Control Tribunal."

Lord Haldane then goes on to deal with statements which had been made to the effect that the war itself was at an end and refers to the statement to that effect made by the Government itself in an Order in Council on 40 December 20th, 1919, some seven months before the passage of the Order in Council in question in the case, and observed that the first-mentioned Order in Council dealt only with the results following from the cessation of actual war conditions, and excepted from repeal certain measures concerned with consequential conditions arising out of war, which might obviously continue to produce effects remaining in operation after war itself was over, and concluded (page 708) :---

"Their Lordships find themselves unable to say that the Dominion "Government had no good reason for thus temporarily continuing the "paper control after actual war had ceased, but while the effects of "war conditions might still be operative."

It is submitted that the reasoning of Lord Haldane in the Fort Frances case applies in all respects to the case at bar. In the present case various Orders were made under the "War Measures Act" dealing with the custody and control of persons of the Japanese race and their property during the war, and Parliament, recognizing that a national emergency still existed 10 as a result of war conditions, passed the "Emergency Act" some eight months after hostilities had ceased, and by section 4 empowered the Governor in Council to make an Order that orders and regulations made under the "War Measures Act" should continue in force for another year.

It might further be contended that the fact of enacting the "Emergency Act" and by that Act declaring (section 5) that after that Act came into force, the war against Germany and Japan shall, for the purposes of the "War Measures Act," be deemed no longer to exist, in itself was an indication that the emergency had ceased to exist, otherwise it would have been sufficient to have left the orders and regulations made under the "War

- 20 Measures Act" in operation until they were revoked or until peace was declared, and in this connection reference is made to section 2 of the "War Measures Act," which provides that the issue of a proclamation shall be conclusive evidence that war exists and of its continuance until by the issue of a further proclamation it is declared that the war no longer exists. This latter proclamation has of course not yet been issued. As to this contention it is submitted that the same reasoning applies here as to what was said by Lord Haldane in the Fort Frances case dealing with the statements made in the Order in Council of December 20th, 1919, that the war no longer existed (p. 707), where he pointed out that this Order in Council
- 30 deals only with the results following from the cessation of actual war conditions, and excepts from repeal certain measures concerned with consequential conditions arising out of war which may obviously continue to produce effects remaining in operation after war itself is over. What was done in the present case is merely an extension or enlargement of what was done in the matter of paper control at the end of the first Great War, and instead of continuing the Orders in Council made under the "War Measures Act" relating solely to persons of the Japanese race, the Government has continued in force all the orders and regulations made under the "War Measures Act" which existed on 31st December, 1945, for a further period of one year. No different principle is involved, and it is submitted that as long as the Government was satisfied that an emergency existed as a result of the war requiring the legislation in question, it was competent to enact it. Parliament has said in the preamble to the "Emergency Act" that the emergency existed, and it is not for the Courts to question that statement unless there is strong and clear evidence that the Government was mistaken. Much and strong evidence could be adduced to show the reason why the Government came to that conclusion, but on a reference of this kind such evidence is not and can not be before the Court for consideration, and the Court is limited to the consideration of the question as to whether it was competent for the Government to enact the legislation, and if the answer to this question is in the affirmative that is an end to the question.

For these reasons it is respectfully submitted that the answer to the question submitted for the consideration of this Court should be that the Orders in Council in question are wholly intra vires of the Governor in Council.

IN THE MATTER OF A REFERENCE AS TO THE VALIDITY OF ORDERS IN COUNCIL OF THE 15TH DAY OF DECEMBER, 1945 (P.C. 7355, 7356 AND 7357), IN RELATION TO PERSONS OF THE JAPANESE RACE.

Factum of the Attorney General of Canada

PART I

By Order in Council of January 8, 1946 (P.C. 45) the following question is referred to this Court for hearing and consideration, namely:—

Are the Orders in Council dated the 15th day of December, 1945, being P.C. 7355, 7356 and 7357, ultra vires of the Governor in Council either in whole or in part and if so in what particular or particulars and to what extent?

The first Order in Council referred to (P.C. 7355), is an Order authorizing the repatriation or sending to Japan of designated classes of persons who are nationals of Japan or who are of the Japanese race and conferring authority on the Minister of Labour for that purpose. The second Order in Council (P.C. 7356) provides that persons leaving Canada pursuant to the first mentioned Order, if they are naturalized British subjects under the Naturalization Act of Canada, shall cease to be either British subjects or Canadian nationals. The third Order 20 in Council (P.C. 7357) authorizes a Commission to investigate the activities, loyalty and extent of co-operation with the Government of Canada during the war of Japanese nationals and naturalized persons of the Japanese race named by the Minister of Labour with a view to making recommendations as to the deportation of such persons under the first mentioned Order.

The latter two Orders in Council have no operation except by reason of the first Order in Council. The three Orders in Council constitute one scheme the validity of which depends on the first Order in Council, P.C. 7355.

Order in Council P.C. 7355 is made following recitals that during the course of the war with Japan certain Japanese nationals manifested their sympathy with or support of Japan by making requests for repatriation to Japan and otherwise and other persons of the Japanese race have requested or may request that they be sent to Japan. It further recites that it is considered necessary by reason of the war for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada that provision be made to deport these classes of persons.

The Order in Council is expressed to be made under the authority of the War Measures Act.

10 Section two of the Order establishes three categories of persons who "may be deported to Japan".

The first category includes every national of Japan, who is not also a Canadian national, of sixteen years of age or over, resident in Canada who was detained pursuant to the provisions of the Defence of Canada Regulations or of Order in Council P.C. 946 of February 5, 1943, as amended by Order in Council P.C. 5637 of August 16, 1945, at midnight of September 1, 1945, the day before the formal unconditional surrender of the military forces of Japan. The relevant regulations of the Defence of Canada Regulations (Consolidation) 1942 were regulations 21, 24 and 25. Regulation 21 provided that the Minister of Justice, if satisfied 20 that with a view to preventing any particular person from acting in a manner prejudicial to the public safety or the safety of the state it was necessary so to do, might make an order directing that the person be detained. Regulation 24 provided that all enemy aliens who were members of enemy armed forces and who attempted to leave Canada and in regard to whom there was reasonable ground to believe that their attempted departure was with a view to assisting the enemy or who were engaged or had attempted to engage in espionage or acts of a hostile nature or who gave or attempted to give information to the enemy or who assisted or attempted to assist the enemy or who were on reasonable grounds suspected of doing or attempting to do any of these acts should be arrested and 30 detained. Paragraphs 8 and 9 of regulation 25 provided that if any enemy alien refuses to give an undertaking to report and to observe the laws of Canada and to abstain from acts of hostility or communication with the enemy or who in the judgment of the Registrar or the Minister of Justice could not consistently with the public safety be allowed at large or who fails to register when required or to answer questions truthfully or to observe any of the conditions upon which he was permitted his liberty, might be interned as a prisoner of war. When regulation 21 mentioned above was revoked by Order in Council P.C. 5637 of August 16, 1945, a further provision was added to Order in Council P.C. 946 of February 5, 1943, that all persons of the Japanese race who were detained pursuant to the provisions of regulation 21 prior to August 15, 1945, and were so detained on August 15, 1945, should continue to be detained subject to release by the Minister of Justice. Order in Council P.C. 946 of February 5, 1943, confers certain powers on the Minister of Labour and makes certain other provisions in connection with persons of the Japanese race evacuated from the protected areas of British Columbia and for the control of persons of the Japanese race in Canada.

The second category of persons who "may be deported to Japan" includes certain persons of the Japanese race of sixteen years of age or over resident in 10 Canada, who have made written "requests for repatriation" i.e. have requested in writing that they be repatriated or sent to Japan (P.C. 7355, section 1(d)). Three classes of such persons are designated in this category:—

- 1. every such person who is a national of Japan and who made such a request since the date of declaration of war by the Government of Canada against Japan on December 8, 1941, (section 2 (1)(a));
- 2. every such person who is a naturalized British subject who made such a request which was not revoked in writing prior to September 1, 1945, the day before the unconditional surrender of the armed forces of Japan, (section 2 (2)); and
- 3. every such person who is a natural-born British subject who has not revoked his request prior to the making by the Minister of an order for his deportation (section 2 (3)).

Except as provided in paragraphs enumerated 2 and 3 a request for repatriation is final and irrevocable for the purposes of the Order (section 3). Notwithstanding such a request by any person or that the request has become irrevocable by him, the Minister of Labour may, under Order in Council P.C. 7357, refer the case of any naturalized person to the Commission established by that Order in Council for investigation and its recommendation with reference to deportation (P.C. 7357, section 2).

30 The third category of persons includes the wife and children under sixteen years of age of any person against whom an order for deportation is made. They may be included in the order. (section 2(4)).

It is apparent on examination of the Order that, in conjunction with the later provisions of the Order, the authority conferred by the provision "may be deported to Japan" in section 2 is two-fold, namely it contemplates the making of orders for the compulsory deportation of certain persons within the designated categories and it also contemplates the making of arrangements for the transportation and care of persons who have requested to be sent to Japan and who voluntarily proceed to Japan. "Deport" is defined in the Order to mean removal or send from Canada pursuant to the authority of the Order and "deportation" is defined to mean the removal pursuant to the authority of the Order of any person from any place in Canada to a place outside of Canada (section 1(a) and (b)). In subsection 1 of section 6 of the Order, reference is made to "any person for whom an order for deportation is made or who having made a request for repatriation is proceeding to Japan without the issue of such an Order" and it is provided that he "shall be entitled insofar as circumstances at the time 10 permit . . . at or immediately prior to the time of his deportation from Canada . . ." to certain rights. "Deportation" and "deport" clearly include voluntary as well as forcible removal and provide for those persons who have requested to be sent to Japan.

By section 4 of the Order the Minister of Labour is authorized to make orders for the deportation of any person "subject to deportation" i.e. who may be deported under section 2, to take such measures as he deems advisable to provide or arrange for the deportation of such persons and for their transportation, detention, discipline, feeding, shelter and welfare pending their deportation and to make such orders, rules and regulations as he deems necessary for the purpose 20 of carrying out the provision of the Order (paragraphs (a), (b) and (c)). The authority conferred is to make the necessary arrangements for taking to Japan those persons who have requested to be sent as well as those who are to be forcibly deported.

Section 6 of the Order provides that any person for whom an order for deportation is made or who, having made a request for repatriation, is proceeding to Japan without the issue of such an order shall be entitled, insofar as circumstances at time permit, at or immediately prior to the date of his deportation from Canada, to purchase suitable foreign exchange to the extent of any money in his possession or standing to his credit in Canada or advanced to him by the Minister 30 in the circumstances mentioned below and to take the foreign exchange out of Canada with him. He may also deposit any money in his possession or standing to his credit in Canada with the Custodian of enemy property who shall provide him with a receipt therefor and purchase foreign exchange therewith and the Custodian shall transfer the foreign exchange, less transfer charges, to such person whenever it is reasonably possible following upon his deportation. The person deported may also at the time of his deportation take with him such personal property belonging to him as may be authorized by the Minister. The Foreign Exchange Control Board is required to do such things and to issue such permits as may be required to implement the foregoing provisions (section 6(1)).

Where real or personal property of a person who has been deported or who, having made a request for repatriation, has proceeded to Japan without the issue of any order for deportation has not been sold or otherwise disposed of prior to his departure, the property shall as of the date of his deportation be vested in the Custodian of enemy property. The Custodian shall take such measures as he deems proper for the care, maintenance and safeguarding of the property and shall sell it as soon as, in his opinion, it is reasonably practical to do so. The net proceeds realized from the sale shall, after deduction of reasonable handling charges, be held to the credit of the person deported and utilized to purchase 10 foreign exchange to be transferred to the deported person whenever reasonably possible following upon his deportation. (Section 6(2)).

The Minister of Labour is authorized to advance to a person who is being deported or who having made a request for repatriation is proceeding to Japan without the issue of an order for deportation, an amount in suitable foreign exchange which will provide such person with the amount of at least two hundred dollars together with an additional fifty dollars for each dependent when added to the money he already possesses (section 7).

The remaining provisions of the order are largely administrative or ancillary.

The other Orders in Council referred to in the question refered to the Court 20 for consideration and hearing (P.C. 7356 and 7357) are merely complementary to Order in Council P.C. 7355. Both of them in the recitals and in their substantive provisions expressly refer to Order in Council P.C. 7355.

Order in Council P.C. 7356 applies only to persons who are British subjects by naturalization under the Naturalization Act of Canada and provides that any such person, who is deported under the provisions of Order in Council P.C. 7355, shall, as and from the date on which he leaves Canada in the course of his deportation, cease to be either a British subject or a Canadian national. "Deportation" here also is to be interpreted to mean forcible or voluntary removal from Canada.

30 Order in Council P.C. 7357 provides for the establishment of a commission to make inquiries concerning the activities, loyalty and extent of co-operation with the Government of Canada during the war of Japanese nationals and naturalized persons of the Japanese race in Canada in cases where their names are referred to the Commission by the Minister of Labour for investigation with a view to recommending whether in the circumstances of any such case the persons should be deported. Notwithstanding that the requests for repatriation made by naturalized persons of the Japanese race is final under Order in Council P.C. 7355, the Commission may at the request of the Minister of Labour inquire into the case of any such person and may make such recommendations with respect to such case as it deems advisable. Any person of the Japanese race who is recommended by the Commission for deportation shall be deemed to be a person subject to deportation under the provisions of Order in Council P.C. 7355 and as and from the date he leaves Canada in the course of deportation shall cease to be either a British subject or a Canadian national. The remaining provisions of the Order in Council are administrative.

The foregoing Orders in Council were made after the authority of the Supreme 10 Commander for the Allied Powers in Japan had been obtained for the repatriation and sending of the Japanese affected, subject only to provision of shipping (dispatches attached to Order of Reference). Repatriation or sending of these persons to Japan is being carried out as an act of war by the military forces of the allied powers, the acceptance of the persons departed being imposed on Japan.

It is necessary to observe that The National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945 came into operation on January 1, 1946 and that Act provides that for the purposes of the War Measures Act the war against Germany and Japan is deemed no longer to exist (section 5). That Act also provides for the continuation by the Governor in Council of Orders lawfully made under the War Measures 20 Act (section 4).

Order in Council P.C. 7414 of December 28, 1945, passed pursuant to section 4 of The National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945, is a general order providing that all orders and regulations lawfully made under the War Measures Act or pursuant to authority created under the said Act in force immediately before the day The National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945 comes into force, shall, while the latter Act is in force, continue in full force and effect subject to amendment or revocation under the latter Act. The Orders in Council referred to this Honourable Court are now in force pursuant to this general order.

PART II

30 The Attorney General of Canada submits that Orders in Council P.C. 7355, 7356 and 7357 were enacted within the authority of the Governor in Council under the War Measures Act and continue in full force and effect by reason of Order in Council P.C. 7414 of December 28, 1945.

PART III

ARGUMENT

The question of the validity of these Orders in Council is solely one of interpretation and application of the provisions of the War Measures Act and the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945.

No question of constitutionality under the British North America Acts or in relation to any other imperial enactment is raised.

Parliament has authority to legislate to confer subordinate legislative authority to enact these Orders in Council.

10 Parliament clearly could have enacted the provisions of the Orders in Council directly.

The distribution of legislative authority effected by the British North America Act between Parliament and the legislatures of the provinces is exhaustive of the whole field of sovereign legislative authority subject only to such limitations as are contained in the British North America Acts.

Bank of Toronto v. Lambe (1887) 12 A.C. 575, Lord Hobhouse at 588, Attorney General for Canada v. Cain, 1906, A.C. 542; Attorney General for Ontario v. Attorney General for Canada, 1912, A.C.

Nadan v. The King, 1926, A.C. 482; Statute of Westminster, 1931, sections 2, 3, and 7 (2) and (3). Croft v. Dunphy, 1933, A.C. 156;

British Coal Corporation v. The King, 1935, A.C. 500, Viscount Sankey L.C. at 517-18.

It is clearly within the sovereign power of a state to deport or exile or banish aliens or subjects or citizens of the state and to deprive them of citizenship or nationality acquired by naturalization under the laws of the state and to make such necessary ancillary arrangements as may be required. The fact that external arrangements with other countries may be necessary to carry out such legislation 30 does not affect its legal operation within the state. In any event in the present case external arrangements with the government of the country receiving the persons deported are not necessary. They are deported and their acceptance is imposed on Japan as an act of war through the Supreme Commander of the Allied Powers, of which Canada is a member. There is nothing in the British North America Acts restricting or limiting the totality of legislative power conferred under those Acts with reference to the deportation, exile or banishment of aliens or British subjects. There is no other imperial legislation effective on these subjects in Canada which cannot be altered in the exercise of the legislative power conferred on Parliament or the legislatures of the provinces under the British North America Acts. Statute of Westminster, 1931, Sections 2, 3 and 7(2) and (3).

Under the British North America Acts the authority to enact legislation in relation to the matters dealt with in Orders in Council P.C. 7355, 7356 and 7357 10 is conferred on Parliament.

The matters in relation to which these Orders in Council are enacted clearly fall within the emergency power of Parliament during time of war.

Fort Frances Pulp and Paper Company v. Manitoba Free Press Company Limited, 1923, A.C. 695.

In any event the legislation enacted in these Orders in Councils is "in relation to" matters falling within the normal legislative authority of Parliament under head 25 "naturalization and aliens" and under the opening words "for the peace, order and good government of Canada" of section 91 of the British North America Act. The deportation of aliens and the revocation or termination of status as a 20 British subject acquired by naturalization clearly falls within head 25. The deportation from Canada of persons other than aliens is clearly a matter which does not fall within section 92 of the British North America Act. The legislature of a province cannot provide for deportation from Canada or enact legislation "in relation to" such a subject matter. Since the legislative authority conferred by the British North America Act is exhaustive of full sovereign legislative authority, where a matter does not fall within any of the enumerated heads of 92 it must fall within the opening words of section 91. The omission from the text of the Act of specific reference to any matter in relation to which legislation may be enacted does not raise a presumption that the power to do so is omitted from the 30 Act. On the contrary it is to be taken for granted that the power is bestowed in some quarter . . ." (Earl Loreburn L.C. in Attorney General for Ontario v. Attorney General for Canada (Companies Reference) 1912, A.C. 571 at 583.

Since Parliament could directly enact the provisions of Orders in Council P.C. 7355, 7356 and 7357 it can confer subordinate authority on the Governor in Council to legislate on these subject matters. Where there is no specific provision in the British North America Acts restricting the legislative authority of Parliament in relation to a particular subject matter to legislating directly on such matter itself, Parliament may confer subordinate authority to legislate in relation to that subject matter.

Shannon v. Lower Mainland Dairy Products Board; Attorney General for British Columbia intervening, 1938 A.C. 708.

Reference as to the Validity of the Regulations in Relation to Chemicals, 1943, S.C.R. 1.

There is no provision in the British North America Acts restricting the authority of Parliament, in relation to the matters provided for by the Orders in Council, to legislation enacted directly by Parliament itself.

It is clearly, therefore, within the authority of Parliament to confer authority by the War Measures Act on the Governor in Council to legislate in relation to the 20 matters provided by the Orders in Council.

Moreover no question of constitutionality under the British North America Acts arises with reference to continuation of these Orders in force under The National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945. That Act was enacted in recognition of the continued existence of the war to confer authority to legislate in relation to the matters therein mentioned during the emergency period arising out of the war, i.e. the remainder of the war and the period of transition from conditions of war to conditions of peace. The Act contemplates that the state of war continues. Preamble; Sections 2(i)(e), 5 and 7. Section 4 confers authority on the Governor in Council to continue in full force and effect orders and regula-30 tions made under the War Measures Act. All such orders and regulations were made by reason of the war. It is within the authority of Parliament to confer authority to continue orders and regulations made by reason of the war for the remaining period of the war and until the measures taken can be discontinued in an orderly manner.

The provisions of the War Measures Act empower the Governor in Council to enact the provisions of Orders in Council P.C. 7355, 7356 and 7357 of December 15, 1945, and section 4 of The National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945 empowers the Governor in Council to continue these Orders in Council in full force and effect.

Section 3 of the War Measures Act provides: "The Governor in Council may do and authorize such acts and things, and make from time to time such orders and regulations, as he may by reason of the existence of real or apprehended war, invasion or insurrection deem necessary or advisable for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada; and for greater certainty, but not so as to restrict the generality of the foregoing terms, it is hereby declared that the powers 10 of the Governor in Council shall extend to all matters coming within the classes of subjects hereinafter enumerated, that is to say:—

- (b) Arrest, detention, exclusion and deportation.
- (f) Appropriation, control, forfeiture and disposition of property and of the use thereof."

"The action of carrying away; forcible removal esp. into exile; transportation"—New English Dictionary edited by Sir James Murray, LL.D. and Henry Bradley, M.A. (Oxford English Dictionary). "Act of deporting or state of being deported; banishment; transportation. In modern law, the removal from a country of an alien considered inimicable to the public welfare; distinguished from transportation and extradition". Webster's New International Dictionary. "The act of carrying away; removal; transportation; exile; banishment". Worcester's Dictionary.

Order in Council P.C. 7355 providing for the removal voluntarily or forcibly of all the classes designated in Orders in Council mentioned or those recommended for deportation under P.C. 7357 is clearly within the meaning of the term "deportation". The provisions of the Orders in Council in relation to loss of status as a British subject and as a Canadian national and in relation to the control and disposition of property are necessarily incidental to effective legislation in relation 30 to deportation. They, therefore, fall within this enumerated head.

In any event it is not necessary that they should fall within the specific heads enumerated because the authority conferred on the Governor in Council by the general power under the War Measures Act is the fullest plenary legislative power which Parliament can confer subject only to the two conditions that a state of war must exist and that the Governor in Council deems the order necessary by reason of the war for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada. Reference

The Orders in Council were a valid and effective exercise of the authority of the Governor in Council under the War Measures Act and are validly continued in 10 full force and effect under the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945.

A state of war existed between Canada and Japan at the time of the making of the Orders in Council. By section 2 of the War Measures Act the issue of a proclamation by His Majesty or under the authority of the Governor in Council shall be conclusive evidence that war exists until by the issue of a further proclamation it is declared that war no longer exists. By a proclamation dated December 8, 1941, published in the CANADA GAZETTE on the same date, it was declared that a state of war with Japan exists in Canada as and from the 8th day of December, 1941. No proclamation declaring that such a state of war no longer exists had been issued at the time the Orders in Council were made. In fact the 20 state of war with Japan continues to exist.

The Governor in Council expressly states in Order in Council P.C. 7355, and 30 by reference to that Order in Council states in Orders in Council P.C. 7356 and 7357, that the provisions thereof are considered necessary by reason of the state of war then existing for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada. It is not open to a court to investigate whether in the opinion of the court these provisions are necessary for these purposes. The decision as to the necessity of the measures is one entrusted exclusively to the Governor in Council and where the Governor in Council has decided that they are necessary or advisable the court has no jurisdiction or authority to consider the question. Moreover it is apparent that the provisions of the Orders in Council if deemed necessary or advisable for the welfare of Canada, are so necessary or advisable by reason of the war. In the main the persons to be deported are persons who were 10 detained in time of war to preserve the safety of the state or who in time of war requested repatriation or to be sent to an enemy country. The provision for the deportation of the wife and infant children of persons in the first two categories who are ordered to be deported is necessarily incidental to proper humanitarian provisions with reference to persons in the first two categories. The deportation of persons who have indicated by reason of and during the war the undesirability of retaining them in Canada is being effected as an act of war namely by imposing acceptance of these persons on Japan. The provision for revocation of naturaliza-The provisions for recommending tion is necessary to effective deportation. deportation of other persons of the Japanese race after investigation of their 20 activities, loyalty and the extent of their co-operation with the Government of Canada during the war is a provision of the same type as that with reference to the first two categories in Orders in Council P.C. 7355.

No provision of Orders in Council 7355, 7356 and 7357 is inconsistent with or repugnant to any of the provisions of the War Measures Act itself. "Deportation" is patently not considered for the purpose of the War Measures Act as a penalty or a forfeiture. The restrictions relating to penalties and forfeitures do not, therefore, affect the power of deportation. The provision with reference to the vesting of property in the Custodian of enemy property for the purpose of safekeeping and realization of the value thereof is not in conflict with the provisions relating to the 30 appropriation of property by the Crown. "Appropriation" means "The making of a thing private property, whether another's or (as now commonly) one's own; taking as one's own or to one's own use". (A New English Dictionary edited by Sir James Murray L.L.D.); "Appropriation" in the War Measures Act applies to a case where the Crown appropriates property as its own or for its own use. This is clearly in accordance with the provisions of section 7 of the War Measures Act.

Dominion Iron and Steel Company Limited v. The King, (1920) 20 Ex.C.R. 245, Cassels J. at 256.

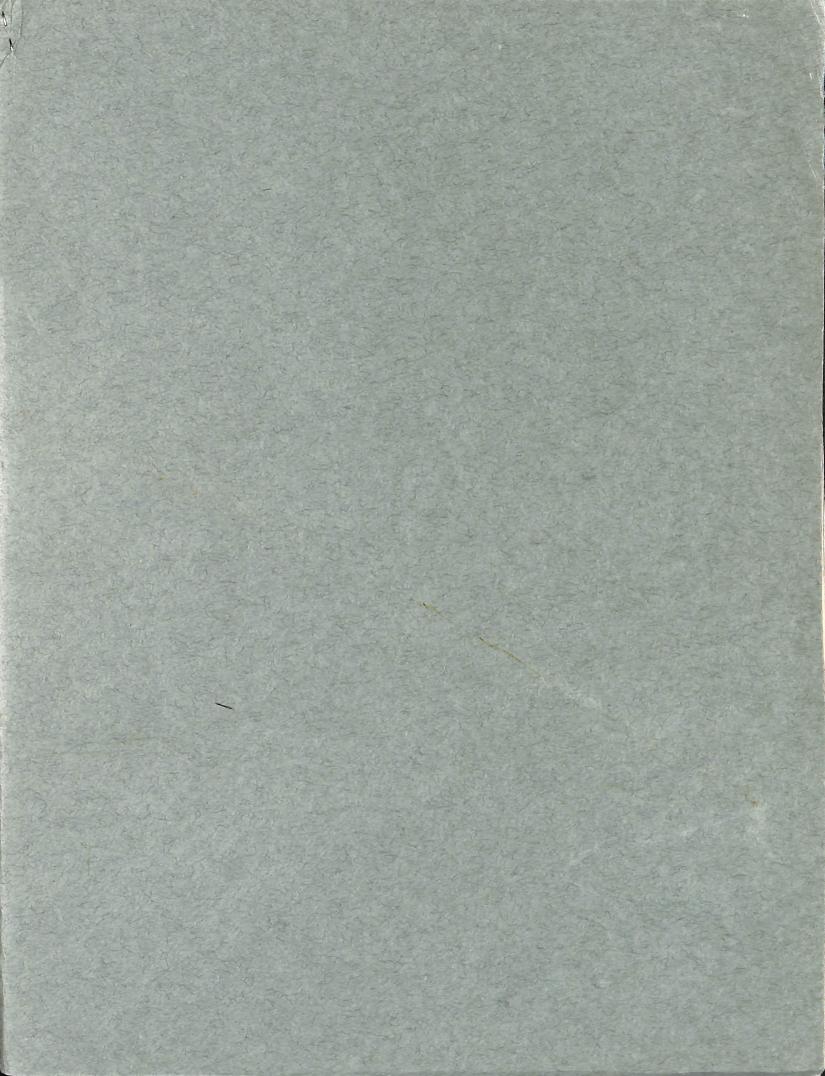

The vesting of property in a public officer for safekeeping and for disposition for the benefit of the owner is not an appropriation.

Order in Council P.C. 7414 of December 28, 1945, is within the powers conferred on the Governor in Council by the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945.

The authority conferred on the Governor in Council is a plenary legislative power to continue these orders and regulations and is not subject to review in a court.

TO THE PRIME MINISTER AND MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

IN THE MATTER OF

JAPANESE CANADIAN ECONOMIC LOSSES

SUBMISSION TO THE PRIME MINISTER AND MEMBERS OF THE GOVERNMENT

IN THE MATTER OF JAPANESE CANADIAN ECONOMIC LOSSES ARISING FROM EVACUATION

ENTERED BY THE NATIONAL JAPANESE CANADIAN CITIZENS ASSOCIATION 61 COLLEGE STREET, TORONTO 2, ONTARIO and a second second second by

To the Right Honourable Louis St. Laurent, Prime Minister, and Honourable Members of the Government of Canada.

This submission is made by the National Japanese Canadian Citizens' Association and its component chapter organizations in the provinces of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec. This national body was founded by a conference of representatives of various Japanese Canadian organizations through Canada on September 2, 1947. It has as its primary aims the protection of the economic and social welfare of persons of Japanese ancestry in the Dominion and the development of a truly democratic society wherein fundamental rights and liberties are preserved for all citizens.

After Pearl Harbour in December, 1941, it was deemed expedient to evacuate all persons of the Japanese race from the Pacific Coast of Canada. It was considered to be essential to carry out this task with the least possible delay. Some 22,000 persons were evacuated within 6 months. Being an emergency measure, emergency methods had to be employed.

The B. C. Security Commission was vested with the responsibility of the physical removal of this mass of persons. The immensity of the task and the haste required left little room for the protection of individual rights and humanitarian consideration.

To the Secretary of State, acting as Custodian, fell the onerous and difficult task of protecting the personal chattels and real property of the evacuated population from vandalism, depreciation and destruction. The task was difficult by reason of:

(a) the necessity to hurriedly organize a large staff;(b) the removal on short notice of families, particularly from remote and isolated areas, without adequate provision for recording or protecting their property;

- (c) the strong anti-Japanese attitude in the community which lowered the moral barriers to condone theft, destruction and exploitation in acquiring assets;
- (d) the panic of uncertainty amongst the evacuees which influenced them to overlook the taking of many precautions for the protection of their property which might have assisted in its preservation.

Prior to evacuation these persons were allowed to dispose of their own assets. In certain cases they were encouraged by the Custodian to do so. However, being under notice to evacuate, many improvident sales were made, and all such sales were as if made on a forced liquidation and were not free sales in a normal market. Heavy losses were sustained. Exploitation was rampant and the Government by various Orders-in-Council recognized the need for protective action. P.C. 288 of January 13, 1942 creating the Japanese Fishing Vessels Disposal Committee, recognized the need for protection from duress in the sale of vessels. However, other types of property were sold at heavy sacrifices.

Once evacuated, all property of evacuees were vested in the Custodian except cash and securities and until August, 1942, vessels. At first it was the intention of the Government to preserve the property of these hapless people. In good faith and in reliance upon this frequently stated policy of the Government and the Custodian, many persons left their properties in his care. In this expectation, many persons after leaving their belongings, if they had time, did not make full inventories. In the same expectation, the Custodian's field men often made only general inventories when they were able to get around to the property. They, too, worked under haste and pressure.

After a year's experience with the impossible task of protecting all this property, the Government changed its policy to one of "orderly liquidation". In the meantime vandalism, theft and depreciation had had their toll. Had this policy been established at the time of evacuation and had time permitted, the Japanese could have made full inventories and obtained valuations of their property. However. orderly the liquidation of all of the property of 22,000 people to the last kitchen chair may be, such a sale, it is submitted, must remain a liquidation. The essential difference in price between a liquidation and voluntary sale is universal knowledge. Such sales are the happy hunting ground of bargain seekers, dealers and speculators.

As indicated above, vessels at first did not vest in the Custodian. It was decided at the outset to sell these as rapidly as possible to avoid depreciation and to get them into use in the essential fishing industry. That the boats were damaged in their collection and early detention by the navy has been recognized by the Government. However, compensation for damage and missing essential gear was paid to the purchaser. The market was flooded by the dumping of these boats in a 7 month period. The unsold boats vested in the Custodian in August, 1942.

Recognizing that injustices had been done, the Government in mid-year, 1947, after study of the problem by the Public Accounts Committee of the House of Commons, set up a Commission under the Public Inquiries Act to determine the losses suffered and to recommend just and equitable awards therefore. The operative portion of the Orders-in-Council, P.C. 1810 of July 18, 1947 and P.C. 3737 of September 17, 1947 read as follows as amended:

"That the Honourable Mr. Justice Henry Irvine Bird be appointed a Commissioner to inquire into the following claims, namely:-

- (a) that real and personal property vested in the Custodian was disposed of by the Custodian for less than the fair market value thereof at the time of sale
- (b) that personal property vested in the Custodian was lost, destroyed or stolen while in the possession or under the control of the Custodian or some person appointed by him."

Mr. Justice Bird, a Judge of the British Columbia Court of Appeal, was appointed Commissioner. The Commission held hearings and discussions for over two years and the Commissioner has reported his findings.

With respect to the Bird Commission and the awards recommended by the Commissioner, having regard to the immensity and difficulty of the problem, we believe the vast majority of the persons of Japanese ancestry in Canada regard these awards as a measure of rough justice within the limited terms of reference. We respectfully submit, however, that the people of Canada will fall far short of providing "reasonable and just compensation" to evacuees if that compensation is limited to the results of the enquiry. This submission is based upon the following considerations:

- 1. The Difficulty Caused by Limited Scope of Terms of Reference -
  - (a) Fair Market value was to be determined as at date of sale, thus:
    - (i) Deterioration, in some cases admitted by the Crown to be extensive, and not caused through any fault of claimant, had the effect of reducing the award.
    - (ii) Properties which were tenanted at date of sale, by reason of eviction freezing orders, brought less than they would had the claimant been in occupation. This factor was excluded by the terms of reference. However the properties were only tenanted because of evacuation and the evacuees were urged by the Government to rent and if they did not do so the Custodian rented the property himself.
    - (iii) Depression of market value by reason of towns or areas becoming substantially 'ghost towns' resulting from evacuation of Japanese.
  - (b) Loss of goodwill of business was excluded from the terms of reference. For the most part the goodwill of business disappeared when the owner was evacuated. In many cases tenancies of premises in which businesses were carried on were terminated leaving only the equipment and stockin-trade to sell. In some cases the Custodian sold the business premises and the chattels separately.<sup>9</sup>

- (c) Exclusion of losses on accounts receivable. Evacuees could not themselves collect these accounts by force of law. The Custodian did not, except in a very few cases, employ any collection agency or legal counsel, as a result, a very large number of these accounts were never collected and are now uncollectable.
- (d) By requiring that the property must have been sold by the Custodian the terms of reference excluded:
  - (i) Forced sales by individuals made in the panic of evacuation, despite the fact that the Custodian encouraged sales of businesses particularly.
  - (ii) Sales of vessels through the Japanese Fishing Vessels Disposal Committee concurred in by the claimants only because any further delay would mean rapid depreciation to the vessels. (Report of Royal Commission on Japanese Property, page 42, par. 2 re rejection of claims, & page 44, par. 3.)
- (e) Failure to provide for losses incidental to evacuation in addition to the sale of property such as has been provided by Act of Congress in the U.S.A.

2. The Difficulty of Strict Legal Proof of Value -

(a) On all types of property after 6 or 7 years have elapsed.

- (b) By reason of extensive alterations and /or deterioration to real property.
- (c) By reason of the inability to have appraisers examine personal property lost or sold.
- (d) By reason of inadequate records by the claimant due to: (Report of Royal Commission on Japanese Property, re Custodian's administration, page 12, par. 1).
  - (i) The assurance given by the police and the Custodian that his property would be protected. Many of the evacuees therefore did not make detailed inventories of all chattels or have any valuations made on property. A large amount of vandalism occured in many cases before the Custodian took physical possession.
  - (ii) The Custodian often did not take detailed inventories until quite late for the same reason.
  - (iii) In outlying places particularly, the claimants were given very short notice of removal and did not have time to carefully inventory property.
  - (iv) In many cases, records and evidence of value of property were left on the premises and never recovered, being discarded by the Custodian's field men as unsaleable.
- (e) By reason of wide dispersion of claimants, counsel have not been able to consult fully with their clients.
- (f) The unwillingness of many persons to give evidence or take part in the proceedings - a problem common to all public enquiries.

3. Proposals -

In the light of the circumstances we have recounted we propose to the Government that over and above the awards made by the Commissioner within the terms of reference, further compensation should be allowed fully to remedy the injustices suffered by the claimants.

- (a) A percentage of Sale Price allowance on all real properties sold subject to rental regulations.
- (b) A percentage of Sale Price allowance on all real properties to cover depreciation.
- (c) A percentage of Sale Price allowance for goodwill on all businesses subject to sale.
- (d) Percentage of all uncollected accounts receivable.
- (e) Establishment of an adjustment agency to adjust losses on forced sales on claims filed within 12 months with an appeal to the Attorney General for Canada.
- (f) A grant of monies to each adult evacuee to compensate for general losses.
- (g) Interest on all awards from date of sale.
- (g) Adjustments on Real Property not sold to Veterans Land Administration where no special award at a rate equal to the percentage which the average special award bears to the average sale price of properties on which special awards were made.

4. Conclusion -

This submission has been concerned with drawing to your Government's attention issues which are relevant under the Royal Commission inquiry on Japanese property and issues which were completely excluded or given little attention due to the inadequate terms of reference of the Inquiry.

We tender as an appendix to this submission, the Association's submission to the Royal Commission on Japanese Canadian Property, derling with the broad aspects of the evacuation property losses and the deeply human and significant experience of a people in Canada which no Ganadian citizen would bear without the utmost sense of grave injustice.

We therefore respectfully suggest a broad appreciation of all the circumstances which shaped the problem into its present form is fully merited, if it is the intent of your Government to provide for a measure of justice which is equal to the standards of a truly democratic, Canadian way of life.

Respectfully submitted,

Narout

BEFORE: The Chief Justice and Kerwin, Hudson, Taschereau, Rand, Kellock and Estey JJ.

The judgment of The Chief Justice and of Kerwin and Taschereau JJ. was delivered by:—

THE CHIEF JUSTICE: On the 15th day of December, 1945, His Excellency, the Governor General in Council, ordered as follows:—

2. (1) Every person of sixteen years of age or over, other than a Canadian national, who is a national of Japan resident in Canada and who,

- (a) has, since the date of declaration of war by the Government of Canada against Japan, on December 8, 1941, made a request for repatriation; or
- (b) has been in detention at any place in virtue of an order made pursuant to the provisions of the Defence of Canada Regulations or of Order in Council P.C. 946, of the 5th day of February, 1943, as amended by P.C. 5637, of the 16th day of August, 1945, and was so detained as at midnight of September 1, 1945;

may be deported to Japan.

(2) Every naturalized British subject of the Japanese race of sixteen years of age or over resident in Canada who has made a request for repatriation may be deported to Japan: Provided that such person has not revoked in writing such request prior to midnight the first day of September, 1945.

(3) Every natural born British subject of the Japanese race of sixteen years of age or over resident in Canada who has made a request for repatriation may be deported to Japan: Provided that such person has not revoked in writing such request prior to the making by the Minister of an order for deportation.

(4) The wife and children under sixteen years of age of any person for whom the Minister makes an order for deportation to Japan may be included in such order and deported with such person.

The Order further provided that a request for repatriation, made under the above provisions, would be deemed final and irrevocable for the purpose of the Order or any action taken thereunder after a fixed delay.

The Minister of Labour was thereby authorized to "make orders for the deportation of any persons subject to deportation"; to take such measures as he deemed advisable to arrange for the deportation and for the detention, transportation, etc., of the persons subject thereto, and generally to make such rules or regulations and employ such officers or adopt such measures as he would from time to time deem necessary for the purpose of carrying out the Order.

Certain ancillary provisions are added to the Order with regard to property and belongings of the person being deported, or subject to deportation, or for the purpose of enabling the Minister to carry out the provisions of the Order. Of these ancillary provisions, section (9) alone

(9) Any person for whom an order for deportation is made and who is detained pending deportation or who is placed under restraint in the is detained pending deportation by virtue of any order or measure made or taken course of deportation by order shall, while so detained or restrained, be under section 4 of the Order shall, while so detained or restrained, be deemed to be in legal custody. This Order in Council was given No. P.C. 7355 and the reasons for its adoption are stated in the preamble as

Whereas during the course of the war with Japan certain Japanese follows:--nationals manifested their sympathy with or support of Japan by making requests for repatriation and otherwise; And whereas other persons of the Japanese race have requested or may request that they be sent to Japan; And whereas it is deemed desirable that provisions be made to deport

the classes of persons referred to above;

And whereas it is considered necessary by reason of the war, for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada, that provision be

On the same day two other Orders in Council were made accordingly; adopted under numbers P.C. 7356 and P.C. 7357. The first of these (7356) refers to Order in Council 7355 whereby provision is made for the deportation of persons who, during the course of the war, have requested to be removed or sent to an enemy country or otherwise manifested their sympathy with or support of the enemy powers and have by such actions shown themselves to be unfit for permanent residence in Canada.

It orders that any person who, being a British subject by naturalization under the Naturalization Act, chapter 138, R.S.C. 1927, is deported from Canada under the provisions of Order in Council P.C. 7355 of the 15th of December, 1945, shall, as and from the date upon which he leaves Canada in the course of such deportation, cease to be either a British subject or a Canadian

Order in Council P.C. 7357 begins by stating that during the war particular measures with regard to persons of the Japanese race were made necessary by reason of their concentration along the Pacific Coast of Canada; that experience during the war in the Administration of Order in Council P.C. 946 of February 5th, 1943, providing for the control of persons of the Japanese race has indicated the desirability of determining whether the conduct of such Japanese persons in time of war was such as to make the deportation of any of them desirable in the national interest, and that it is deemed advisable to make provision for the appointment of a Commission to institute the investigation concerned. It is then ordered that a Commission consisting of three persons shall be appointed to make inquiry concerning the activities, loyalty and the extent of cooperation with the Government of Canada during the war of Japanese nationals and naturalized persons of the Japanese race in Canada in cases where their names are referred to the Commission by the Minister of Labour for investigation with a view to recommending whether in the circumstances of any such case such person should be deported. The Commission is given power, at the request of the Minister of Labour, to inquire into the case of any naturalized British subject of the Japanese race who has made a request for repatriation and which request is final, and to make such recommendations with respect to such case as it deems advisable. The Commission is to report to the Governor in Council. Any person of the Japanese race who is recommended by the Commission for deportation shall be deemed to be a person subject to deportation under the provisions of Order in Council P.C. 7355, which order shall then apply, mutatis mutandis, to such person. As a result of the deportation, the person in question shall cease to be either a British subject or a Canadian national. And, further, the Commission is given, for the purpose of 56639-2

all inquiries and investigations made pursuant to this Order, all the powers and authority of Commissioners appointed under part one of the Inquiries Act.

As will be seen, the latter two Orders in Council (7356-7357) have no operation except by reason of the first Order in Council (7355); the three Orders constitute one scheme, the validity of which depends upon the first Order in of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1927. It is stated and established that these Orders were made only after a suitable arrangement had been made with General Mc-Arthur, Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers in Japan.

Following the adoption of the Orders, representations were made to the Acting Minister of Justice by and on behalf of a number of Canadian organizations and societies expressing the opinion based on advice of legal counsel that the Orders were ultra vires and requesting a reference to the Supreme Court of Canada to test the question. An action had even been commenced against the Attorney General of Canada for a declaration that the Orders in Council were ultra vires, illegal and void. It was, therefore, felt that, in the circumstances, in the public interest, the opinion of the Supreme Court of Canada should be obtained upon the question of the validity of the aforesaid Orders in Council, because, in the opinion of the Acting Minister of Justice, they raised an important question of law touching the interpretation of Dominion legislation. Therefore, His Excellency the Governor General in Council, on the recommendation of the Acting Minister of Justice and under and by virtue of the authority conferred by section 55 of the Supreme Court Act referred the following question to the Supreme Court of Canada for hearing and consideration:-

Are the Orders in Council, dated the 15th day of December, 1945, being P.C. 7355, 7356, and 7357, ultra vires of the Governor in Council either in whole or in part and, if so, in what particular or particulars and to what extent?

by reason of real or apprehended war, deems them necessary or advisable for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada.

And at p. 12 of the Chemicals Reference (1) Sir Lyman Duff states:-

The duty rests upon the Executive Government to decide whether, in the conditions confronting it, it deems it necessary or advisable for the safety of the state to appoint such subordinate agencies and to determine what their powers shall be.

There is always, of course, some risk of abuse when wide powers are committed in general terms to any body of men. Under the War Measures Act the final responsibility for the acts of the Executive rests upon Parliament. Parliament abandons none of its powers, none of its control over the Executive, legal or constitutional.

The enactment is, of course, of the highest political nature. It is the attribution to the Executive Government of powers legislative in their character, described in terms implying nothing less than a plenary discretion, for securing the safety of the country in time of war. Subject only to the fundamental conditions explained above (and the specific provisions enumerated), when Regulations have been passed by the Governor General in Council in professed fulfilment of his statutory duty, I cannot agree that it is competent to any court to canvass the considerations which have, or may have, led him to deem such Regulations necessary or advisable for the transcendent objects set forth. The authority and the duty of passing on that question are committed to those who are responsible for the security of the country-the Executive Government itself, under, I repeat, its responsibility to Parliament. The words are too plain for dispute: the measures authorized are such as the Governor General in Council (not the courts) deems necessary or advisable.

The Co-operative Committee on Japanese Canadians appeared through Counsel in the matter and submitted that the question referred to the Court should be answered in the affirmative, that is to say, that the Orders in Council are wholly ultra vires of the Governor in Council.

First, they said that the word "deportation" means, and means exclusively, "the forcible removal of aliens"; and that it is not apt to describe the sending to Japan of Canadian citizens who were either born or naturalized in Canada and who have no connection with Japan other than that of "race". According to them, "deportation" is the return of an alien to the country from whence he came and not the exile or banishment of a citizen to an alien country.

In the second place, they said that the purpose of the enumeration in section 3 of the War Measures Act was to indicate that the powers of the Governor in Council "could go even thus far", or to indicate "marginal instances", or "cases in which there might be such doubt that it was better to mention them specifically". For that contention, certain dicta in the Gray case, (1) are referred to. They added that the banishment of subjects by any court or body for any other reason than conviction of felony is expressly prohibited by heavy penalties by the Habeas Corpus Act 31, Charles II, chapter 2, section 60. Moreover, they said that the banishment of nationals, particularly on racial grounds, is contrary to the accepted principles of International Law, such as may be gathered from Attorney General of Canada v. Cain (2). They also contended that various provisions of the Orders in Council are repugnant to the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 4-5 George V, chapter 17, and that the latter is an Act to which the Colonial Laws

Their conclusion is, of course, that if the Parliament of Validity Act applies.

Canada did not have the power to make laws repugnant to the Imperial Statute, it could not delegate such power and could not be assumed to have attempted to do so. Then they urged that section 9 of Order in Council P.C.

7355 does away with the right to the writ of habeas corpus and, moreover, conflicts with section 5 of the War Measures Act; and they contended that none of the sections, including said section 9, are severable from the three Orders in Council, so that it cannot be said that the Governor in Council would have passed the Orders at all if some of the sections thereof were being left out, all the provisions of the Orders in Council being interdependent. They argued that it is impossible to say that the Governor in Council would not have abandoned the whole scheme if parts of it had been known to have been ultra vires. A further argument was put forward on the ground that the words "Japanese race" are so vague as to make the provision unenforceable and, for that reason also, the Orders in Council should be set aside.

(2) [1906] A.C. 542, at 546. (1) (1918) 57 Can. S.C.R. 150, at 158, 168, 177.

In respect of the last argument, the Court indicated immediately that it would not be taken into consideration as the question referred to us is whether the Orders in Council are ultra vires, and the point whether some words or sentences therein are vague does not fall within that question. The Orders in Council would not be ultra vires even if some parts thereof were vague.

The attack upon the use of the word "deportation" is addressed, of course, to the word in the War Measures Act, for, in so far as the Orders in Council themselves are concerned, they contain a definition of the word which is said to mean, for the purposes of the Orders, the removal pursuant to the authority of this Order of any person from any place in Canada to a place outside Canada.

There can be no doubt that "deportation" so understood clearly covers the cases and categories of persons affected by the Orders.

But section 3 of the War Measures Act, after stating that the Governor in Council may do and authorize such acts and things, and make from time to time such orders and regulations, as he may by reason of the existence of real or apprehended war, invasion or insurrection deem necessary or advisable for the security, defence, peace, and for greater certainty, but not so as to restrict the generality of the foregoing terms, it is hereby declared that the powers of the Governor in Council shall extend to all matters coming within the classes of subjects hereinafter enumerated; and among the matters enumerated are (section (b)) "Arrest, detention, exclusion and deportation". The contention of the Co-operative Committee is that, as "deportation" is specifically mentioned in that sub-section of section 3, the powers of the Governor in Council, under the War Measures Act, are strictly limited to such "deportation" as means "the forcible removal of aliens."

But, to begin with, it is far from being sure that the word "deportation" is limited to what the Co-operative Committee contends. Counsel for the Attorney General of Canada was able to quote several definitions from standard dictionaries where the meaning of the word is stated to be

However, I would not pause to further consider the However, 1 would not proved, because sub-section (b) objection raised upon that ground, because sub-section (b) objection raised upon the Bares Act also contains the word of section 3 of the War Measures Act also contains the word of section 3 of the first would be apt to cover the measures "exclusion", which would be apt to Orders in Council that are being adopted through the Orders in Council under that are peng anopted under, if the measures so adopted consideration; and, moreover, if the measures so adopted consideration, and, models strictly and specifically contemare not, as contention, words "exclusion and deportation " plated by the use of the words "being done number plated by the use of what is now being done pursuant to the in sub-section (b), what is now being done pursuant to the Orders in Council is undoubtedly covered by the general terms of the War Measures Act. The enumeration therein terms of the first to be only "for greater certainty, but not so as to restrict the generality of the foregoing terms", and, in the first part of section 3, the Governor in Council

So that the discussion as to the exact meaning of the words "exclusion and deportation" in sub-section (b) is really immaterial, for either the "acts and things" mentioned in Orders in Council 7355, 7356 and 7357 are covered by these two words or they are not. If they are, cadit questio; if they are not, they then come under the general powers conferred by the first part of section 3.

Order in Council P.C. 7355 expressly states:-It is considered necessary by reason of the war, for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada, that provision be made accordingly. The other two Orders in Council, as already pointed out, are merely ancillary to Order in Council 7355, and, although bearing separate numbers, would have no real existence but for Order in Council 7355. Indeed this is the very argument of the Co-operative Committee, that they are so completely interdependent that one cannot stand without the others. They are really the subordinate provisions and means for the purpose of carrying out the main Order contained in P.C. 7355. They must be read together and be taken to have been adopted because they were deemed necessary and advisable by reason of the war. This statement of fact made by the Governor in Council, so far as the Court is concerned, cannot be overruled in the circumstances of the matter before us. In the Fort Frances case (1), Viscount Haldane had this to say at page 706:-

It may be that it has become clear that the crisis which arose is wholly at an end and there is no justification for the continued exercise of an exceptional interference which becomes ultra vires when it is no longer called for. In such a case the law as laid down for distribution of powers in the ruling instrument would have to be invoked. But very clear evidence that the crisis had wholly passed away would be required to justify the judiciary, even when the question raised was one of ultra vires which it had to decide, in overruling the decision of the Government that exceptional measures were still requisite. In saying what is almost obvious, their Lordships observe themselves to be in accord with the view taken under analogous circumstances by the Supreme Court of the United States, and expressed in such decisions as that in October, 1919, in Hamilton v. Kentucky Distilleries Co., (2).

Later, in the Chemicals Reference (3), Sir Lyman Duff points out at page 13 that it is perhaps theoretically conceivable that the Court might be required to conclude from the plain terms of the Order in Council itself that the Governor General in Council had not deemed the measure to be necessary or advisable, or necessary or advisable by reason of the existence of war.

Whatever might be said as to certain of the remarks made in Re Price Bros. and Company and the Board of Commerce of Canada (1), in view of the later decision in the Fort Frances case (2), it is quite clear from a perusal of all the opinions in the former that not only was there before the Court an opinion by the then Minister of Justice that there was no emergency, but also there was no definite statement such as we find in the fourth recital in P.C. 7355. In the Price Bros. case (1), Sir Lyman Duff referred to the recitals in the Order in Council of December 20th, 1919, as being

At page 707 of the Fort Frances case (2) appears at least one statement in the Order of December 20th, 1919, to which Sir Lyman Duff must have been referring, i.e., that it must be realized that although no proclamation has been issued declaring that the war no longer exists, actual war conditions have in fact long ago ceased to exist, and consequently existence of war can no longer be urged as a reason in fact for maintaining these extraordinary regulations as necessary or advisable for the security of Canada.

It will be noticed that notwithstanding this reference in the Fort Frances case (2), their Lordships of the Judicial Committee had no difficulty in determining the validity of the Orders in Council there under review.

It is suggested that it cannot be said that the Governor General in Council really considered it necessary by reason of the war, for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada that natural born British subjects should be expelled. The argument is that while P.C. 7356

Even if it turned out that every natural born British subject of the Japanese race did withdraw born pruss, it could not alter the fact as expressed in the Order in Council that it was considered advisable to provide for the event of any number of such class not taking advantage of the opportunity of revocation.

Nor are we concerned with the policy of these measures. As was said by Lord Buckmaster in Attorney General v. Wilts United Dairies (1), in dealing with an Order of the Food Controller made in April, 1919:-"The only question here is: were such powers granted?"

That Canada possessed the power to expel an alien from its territory, or to deport him to the country whence he entered it, is a question that may now be regarded as settled since the judgment of the Privy Council in Attorney General for Canada v. Cain (2). It was also decided in that case that the power could be delegated to the Government, with the authority to impose such extra-territorial constraint as was necessary to execute the power.

As to the second point raised by the Co-operative Committee. I do not think it can be said that any provision of the Orders in Council now under discussion are repugnant to the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 4-5 George V, chapter 17. It does not seem necessary to me to develop that statement, as, after all, the fact of no conflict can be ascertained only by comparison of the respective provisions of the latter Act and the text of the Orders in Council. Section 26 of the British Nationality Act, at the beginning, would seem to eliminate any possibility of conflict. The question which naturally comes to one's mind is: Why should Canada not be able to denaturalize the persons whom it had previously naturalized? The loss of the quality of British subject, resulting from the deportation and the denaturalization which takes place under the Orders, must be read, of course, to mean the cessation of the privileges of a British subject only in so far as Canada is concerned. Moreover, the attempt by the Co-operative Committee to apply here the provisions of the Colonial Laws Validity Act is, in my opinion, ineffective, because each of the Orders in Council are, by force of the War Measures Act, the equivalent of a statute; they have the force of law, and, to all intents and purposes, while they stand, they are exactly on the

I do not see any conflict between the two sections. It is deemed to be in legal custody. I do not see any course of the Act really deals with the apparent that section 5 of the order for deportation while apparent that structure order for deportation, while section situation anterior to the order for deportation, while section situation antende with the situation after the order for 9 of the Order deals with the situation after the order for 9 of the Order usans made. Even if the two sections dealt deportation has been made. it does not follow that h deportation has been in the same situation, it does not follow that because the with the same situation, it deelared to be de with the same strained is declared to be deemed to be person detained or restrained is declared to be deemed to be person detailed of the section 9, it could not happen that in legal custody under section 9, it could not happen that the same person could be released upon bail, or otherwise the same person content of the Minister of discharged or tried, with the consent of the Minister of

But, above all, there is a good deal to be said for the contention that section 9 of the Order is really superfluous, because, if the order for deportation was made, or if the person detained pending deportation, or placed under restraint in the course of deportation, was so placed "by virtue of any order or measure made or taken under section 4 of this Order ", such person is necessarily in legal custody. The whole of section 9 is predicated upon the assumption that the order for deportation, or detention, or restraint, was properly made or taken under section 4; and, if the provisions of section 4 are valid and followed, the necessary consequence is that the person detained, or restrained, is in legal custody. Section 9, therefore, appears to be superfluous, and to have been put there ex abundanti cautela, or, in other words, in order to avoid a doubt as to the legality of the detention or restraint. That very legality necessarily results from the fact that any order, or measure, taken under section 4, means precisely what it says, that is to say, an order or measure in conformity with section 4.

But I do not think that it can be concluded from the wording of section 9 that the intention of the Order in Council is that the recourse to habeas corpus is thereby abolished. At Bar, counsel for the Crown did not so contend; on the contrary, he stated that it was not. The language of section 9 refers to an order authorized by Order in Council P.C. 7355 and, therefore, a valid order resulting in legal custody.

In addition to any other argument in respect to section 9, it may be said that it is clearly severable; and, even if it was held to be ultra vires-which, in my opinion, it is notit is quite evident that declaring it ultra vires would not in any way affect the remainder of the several Orders in Council now submitted.

My answer to the question submitted to the Court is, therefore, that the Orders in Council dated the 15th of December, 1945, being P.C. 7355, 7356 and 7357 are not ultra vires of the Governor General in Council either in whole or in part.

We hereby certify to His Excellency the Governor General in Council that the foregoing are our reasons for the answer to the question referred herein for hearing and consideration.

T. RINFRET P. KERWIN R. TASCHEREAU

Hudson J.—The question submitted for our opinion is the following:

Are the Orders in Council dated 15th December, 1945, being P.C. 7355, 7356 and 7357 ultra vires of the Governor in Council, either in whole or in part and, if so, in what particular or particulars?

These Orders in Council purport to be made under the authority of the War Measures Act and provide for the removal from Canada to Japan of a large number of persons of Japanese race, the revocation of naturalization of such of them as have been naturalized and the disposition of the properties of such persons in Canada.

The reasons given in Order P.C. 7355, which is basic, are stated as follows:

Whereas during the course of the war with Japan certain Japanese nationals manifested their sympathy with or support of Japan by making requests for repatriation to Japan and otherwise;

And whereas other persons of the Japanese race have requested or may request that they be sent to Japan:

And whereas it is deemed desirable that provisions be made to deport the classes of persons referred to above;

The persons to whom this Order applies are of four classes. The first is:

Every person of sixteen years of age or over, other than a Canadian national, who is a national of Japan resident in Canada and who,

(a) has, since the date of declaration of war by the Government of Canada against Japan, on December 8, 1941, made a request for repatriation; or

As the Canadian Parliament have power to grant naturalization, they have equally the power to revoke such naturalization and may delegate such power to the Governor in Council. Once the naturalization is revoked, the person concerned reverts to his original status of being an alien and thus becomes subject to deportation in the same way as any other alien.

It must also be remembered that in making the order for deportation, the Governor in Council is doing what the person involved himself had authorized.

The third class of persons included in Order in Council 7355 consists of:

Every natural born British subject of the Japanese race of sixteen years of age or over resident in Canada who has made a request for repatriation may be deported to Japan: Provided that such person has not revoked in writing such request prior to the making by the Minister of an order for deportation.

The form of request for repatriation used by this class was supplied to us by counsel for the Co-operative Committee of Japanese Canadians and reads as follows:

The mutual obligations there are spoken of as those arising from an implied contract.

It would seem to follow that such obligations could be modified or cancelled by mutual agreement expressed be mounted of forbidden by law. The facts here establish a concurrence in some modifications leading to a final extinguishment of all.

The request of the subject states his desire to relinquish his British nationality and to assume the status of a national of Japan and asks the Government of Canada to arrange for and effect his repatriation to Japan. By this he must mean his naturalization in Japan. This is a plain indication that, with him, the ties of race are stronger than the obligations of nationality.

By the order the Governor in Council concurs in his proposal with no qualification, except that the subject is given an option to withdraw his request at any time before the final deportation order is actually made. If there is no withdrawal in time, it would seem that there was in the language of commerce "a firm contract", so that the deportation order when made and carried out will be in fulfilment of the promise made on behalf of the Government.

It remains to consider whether or not Parliament has power to authorize the Governor in Council to make these orders and, if so, whether such power has been delegated.

As to the first two classes, for the reasons already given, I am satisfied that Parliament has that power and can delegate it to the Governor in Council.

As to the third class, there would be more difficulty in upholding the order, were it not for the terms of the request. Ample opportunity has been and still is given to the subject for reconsideration and withdrawal before the final order is made. It would be hard indeed if the Governor in Council, as soon as arrangements for transportation and reception are completed, is not permitted to carry out the arrangement. It has, in my opinion. adequate legislative sanction.

The British Parliament would undoubtedly have power to order the deportation from the realm of a British subject and the Canadian Parliament appears to have similar powers. Under the British North America Act it has a right to legislate in regard to the peace, order and good government of Canada and, in heading 25 of section 91, it is given exclusive power to legislate in regard to aliens and naturalization. Although deportation of a British citizen would not fall within this heading. vet it is of the same character and is a subject which could not be dealt with by a Provincial Legislature.

Co-Operative Committee of Japanese Canadians have been dealt with by some of the other members of the Court and I shall make brief reference to only two or three.

It was argued that clause 9 of Order in Council P.C. No.

7355 might have the effect of depriving a person about to be deported from any right to a writ of habeas corpus. I agree with the other members of the Court that such is not a proper interpretation of this clause. I think that where any question of fact bearing on the jurisdiction of the (1) (1918) 57 Can. Governor in Council is raised, the person concerned would have a right to put it forward: for example, whether or not he had signed any request or had been induced to sign by misrepresentation or coercion, or whether or not he was of the Japanese race. The validity of the Orders depends on the reality of the requests and any individual who wishes to raise a question of fact, so far as it affects him, should not be deprived of an opportunity of establishing his case.

I am in agreement with what Mr. Justice Estey has said in regard to the fourth class, that is, women and children.

The question submitted in this reference is as follows:

Are the Orders in Council dated 15th December, 1945, being P.C. 7355. 7356 and 7357 ultra vires of the Governor in Council, either in whole or in part and, if so, in what particular or particulars?

In my opinion all the Orders in Council are intra vires of the Governor in Council with the exception of paragraph 2 (4) of P.C. 7355.

I HEREBY CERTIFY to His Excellency the Governor General in Council that the foregoing are my reasons for the answer to the question referred herein for hearing and consideration.

A. B. HUDSON.

RAND J.—His Excellency in Council has referred to this Court the following question arising out of certain Orders in Council which deal with the deportation of persons of the Japanese race:---

Are the Orders in Council dated the 15th day of December, 1945, being P.C. 7355, 7356 and 7357, ultra vires of the Governor in Council either in whole or in part, and if so, in what particular or particulars and to what extent?

The Orders provide for the deportation in certain circumstances of:-

The preamble of Order P.C. 7355 contains the following recitals:-Whereas during the course of the war with Japan certain Japanese nationals manifested their sympathy with or support of Japan by making requests for repatriation to Japan and otherwise;

And whereas other persons of the Japanese race have requested or may request that they be sent to Japan; And whereas it is deemed desirable that provisions be made to deport the classes of persons referred to above;

(1) [1943] S.C.R. 1, at p. 10.

And whereas it is considered necessary by reason of the war, for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada, that provision be made accordingly;

Now, therefore, His Excellency the Governor General in Council, on the recommendation of the Minister of Labour, concurred in by the secretary of State for External Affairs, and under the authority of the War Measures Act, chapter 206 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1927, is pleased to make and doth hereby make the following Order:

A request for repatriation is defined as a written request or statement of desire to be repatriated or sent to Japan. Then follow specific provisions dealing with the different classes of persons affected.

Of these classes there is first that of Japanese nationals. The preamble quoted recites certain conclusions of the Governor in Council pertinent to jurisdiction, and we are to say whether from these and the operative provisions of the Order we find that the decision which the statute has prescribed as its condition has not been made: in re Price Bros. and Company (1), Duff J. (as he then was):

In this connection the sole point requiring examination is that which arises out of Mr. Biggar's contention in his admirable argument that orders in council made by the Governor General in Council professedly under the authority of section 6 of that Act are not judicially revisable. I think such orders are reviewable, in this sense that when in a proper proceeding the validity of them is called into question, it is the duty of a court of justice to consider and decide whether the conditions of jurisdiction are fulfilled and if they are not being fulfilled, to pronounce the sentence of the law upon the illegal order.

One of the conditions of jurisdiction is, in my judgment, that the Governor in Council shall decide that the particular measure in question is necessary or advisable for reasons which have some relation to the perils actual or possible of real or apprehended war-(I leave the case of insurrection out of view as having no relevancy) or as having some relation to the prosecution of the war or the objects of it.

Rex v. Comptroller (2). The language of the preamble is not precisely that employed by the statute, but in relation to this class of persons it appears, I should say, from the Order that the condition has been satisfied. The words "deport" and "repatriation" are appropriate to the return to his native country of an alien. The power of Parliament to deal with aliens is unquestioned, and that field is under delegation to the Governor in Council. The obligation of his own state to receive him must be deemed correlated with the power of the foreign state to expel him,

As in the case of Japanese nationals, these two Orders show As in the case of the decision of the Governor in Council in the Jurisdividualized Japanese. But a question arises of relation to naturalized Japanese. But a question arises of the relation between revocation by Order 7356 and deportathe relation vote. No doubt the expulsion was intended to be followed by alienage of the deported persons; but if no or only a partial effect has been brought about by Order 7356, does that modify the operation of Order 7355?

The Naturalization Act contains a number of grounds upon which the revocation of naturalization can be effected, but the only one of interest here is that set forth in section 9 of chapter 138, Revised Statutes of Canada, 1927, which is as follows:

Where the Governor in Council, upon report of the Secretary of State of Canada, is satisfied * * * that the person to whom the of Canada, is granted has shown himself by act or speech to be disaffected or disloyal to His Majesty, the Governor in Council shall, by order, revoke the certificate.

Order 7356 does not refer to any naturalized person being "disaffected or disloyal"; it deals only with the deportation of a person under Order 7355, and this in turn puts the deportation on the fact of a request for repatriation which has not been revoked in writing prior to September 1st, 1945. Are we to imply from this language that the Governor in Council is satisfied in each case of the disaffection or disloyality of the naturalized person? Here is a penal provision of a drastic nature, and as it affects British subjects, I am unable to supply that conclusion by implication. The revocation for that cause seems to require the aid of the War Measures Act to enable the Governor in Council, as distinguished from the Secretary of State for Canada, to act under the Naturalization Act, but in either case, action must be strictly within the provisions of the latter as to grounds in order to bring about the revocation. It was argued that as Parliament could rescind the adoption, the Governor in Council could revoke on any ground he might see fit: but that view. I think, misconceives the foundation of the Naturalization Act. The legislative efficacy under which the naturalization arises is that of the British Nationality Act, part II of which has been "adopted" by the Canadian Parliament. That word would seem to mean simply that the Canadian Parliament has cleared the way for the extension to Canada of an Imperial Act providing an empire naturalization. That Act directly authorizes the Canadian Government to exercise the powers it creates. The form of the Canadian statute is not ex facie strictly in accordance with that conception, but if we look upon it as an exercise of Canadian legislative jurisdiction then that jurisdiction must be deemed to be by way of a specific investment additional to the British North America Act. but limited strictly to the precise language of the Imperial Act. No question of the Colonial Laws Validity Act arises because of the express power under the statute to rescind the adoption. But naturalization effect-

In these circumstances of naturalization is optained, in revocation of naturalization is of such that the failure in revocation of Order 7977 a nature as to affect the operation of Order 7355.

In relation to the third class, natural born British subjects resident in Canada, serious questions arise.

I observe first that the expulsion of persons in the other two classes is in conjunction with an order or the otner two others of the equivalent of an order made by General MacArthur for their reception as repatriates in Japan. The letters passing between the Governments of Canada and the United States make it clear that what was asked for and conceded was "repatriation". That word is defined in Order 7356 in effect as either a "return" to Japan or "being sent" to that country, but obviously that definition is irrelevant to the meaning of the word as it is used in the communications between the two countries. "Repatriation" means simply a return to the patria or fatherland, and it has no relation to the compulsory transfer of a natural born British subject to a foreign country. Whatever legal rights it may confer to enter or to remain in Japan do not apply to such a subject. Banishment with or without the loss of citizenship status or rights, as an effective exile over a period of time, whatever its feasibility in the early political organization of ever not dis to-day, considering the tenacity with which every foot of land and water is now sought and held, a every the and executive impossibility. Admittedly one legislation into sovereignty has no legal power to force its own citizen into sovereight of another. It is quite the case that banishment and exile were known to the common law, but in each it was either a deportation to politically unorganized lands, a transportation to a British colony by way of punishment for a criminal offence, or a voluntary exile made either by way of abjuration of the realm or as fulfilment of a condition in a pardon or other remission or as an avoida containing self-exile. In none of these ance of present and the slightest suggestion of compulsory invasion of another's territory.

The process and effects of deportation of natural born British subjects under the Order seem to be these: a physical compulsion to leave Canadian shores; a de facto but not de jure entry upon Japanese territory: no citizenship rights in Japan and a retention of the rights of Canadian citizenship.

Now I must deal with this case as if, instead of a Canadian national of Japanese origin, I were dealing with that of a natural born Canadian national of English extraction who sympathized with Mosley or a French-Canadian national who supported Pétain or an Irish-Canadian national who thought deValera's course justified. I am asked to hold that, without a convention with those countries. the Government may, under the War Measures Act, and without affecting the national status or the citizenship rights of these persons, issue an order for their deportation, to those foreign shores. I am unable to agree with that contention.

In these days, we are familiar with exchanges or transfers of sections of population from one country to another by agreement or imposed, but they are carried out as changes of nationality as well as of country: a deprivation of citizenship rights by one state and an investment of them by the other. That is not what is done or intended to be done by the Order with which I am dealing.

he Order with Warliament in enacting the War Measures I think that I attemplated, as a fundamental assumption Act must have contemplated, the delegation of legislation Act must have contact, the delegation of legislative power underlying the statute, the delegation of legislative power underlying the statute only, and must have intended of a strictly legal character only, and must have intended of a strictly legal ofference in Council to measures or actions to restrict the Governor in Council to measures or actions to restrict the Government quality would inhere: that power in which full juridical character would be excluded by in which tuit juitance legal character would be excluded. On another ground I would come to the same conclusion. In Order 7355 the recital which, among others, relates to In Order (1999) this subjects, refers only to a request to be natural point pitting, as I think, a continuing request: sent to Japan, imposed it desirability" that provision be made the general results of the necessity to make to deport and ingly, apply to all three classes. The right to revoke the request by the natural born Canadian national is preserved up to the issue of the Order for deportation and this time limit is simply an administrative convenience. "Deportation" connotes only a single act and no period of time beyond the accomplishment of the expulsion. There is nothing in the Order to prevent such a Canadian from returning at once to the land of his birth. The contrast with the alien is obvious; once an alien leaves this country, he must establish a right given him by the legislature to return; at common law he has no (1) [1906] A.C. 542 right to enter which is recognized in our courts: Musgrove v. Toy (1). Considering, then, that the operation of the Order against the British subject by birth is placed solely upon a request which implies a continuing desire to leave this country, that the Order contemplates as well the withdrawal of persons voluntarily and enables the Minister to make financial arrangements to that end, in conjunction with the other circumstances I have detailed, I find in the Order clear evidence that that act of expulsion is not deemed by the Governor in Council either necessary or advisable for the peace, order or welfare of this country by reason of war; and the essential condition of the provision for compulsion is lacking.

The members of the family of a Canadian national may under Order 7355 be included in the deportation order. If revocation of naturalization takes place, the status of the wife and minor children may thereby be affected. But where by the Order only incidents of the status of the husband and father are reached, the full citizenship rights of the wife and minor children continue. It was not seriously urged that the Governor in Council has deemed the expulsion of such persons advisable or necessary to the peace or welfare of Canada for any reason arising out of war; the most suggested was that it was advisable to the peace and welfare of indivdual families; but that purpose does not seem to be among the objects of Parliament's delegation of legislative power to the Governor in Council.

Mr. Cartwright argued that the war emergency must be deemed to have ended when the War Measures Act became inoperative on January 1st of this year. But that, I think, confuses the emergency with a particular period of it to which particular legislation is related. The emergency as a state of fact underlies both the War Measures Act and the Transitional Powers Act which came into force on January 1st, 1946.

Then it was argued that section 9 of Order 7355 is ultra vires because of conflict with section 6 of the War Measures Act. But an "order" for deportation under Order 7355 means one that carries with it the force of law. The "legal

It is further provided that any person of the Japanese race recommended by the Commission for deportation shall be subject to deportation under the provisions of Order in Council P.C. 7355, and where any person is so recommended for deportation he shall, from the date on which he leaves Canada in the course of such deportation, cease to be a British subject or a "Canadian national."

All of the above orders purport to be made pursuant to the provisions of the War Measures Act, R.S.C. 1927.

On the 28th of December, 1945, P.C. 7414 was passed. By this Order it is recited that the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945, is to come into force on the first of January, 1946, and by its terms provides that on and after that day the war, for the purposes of the War Measures Act, shall be deemed no longer to exist, that under section 4 of the first mentioned Act the Governor in Council may order that orders and regulations lawfully made under the War Measures Act, or pursuant to authority created thereunder in force immediately before the first of January, 1946, shall, while the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945, is in force, continue in full force and effect subject to amendment or revocation thereunder, and that all orders and regulations so made and in force immediately before the day the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945, comes into force, shall, while that Act is in force, continue in full force and effect subject to amendment or revocation under that Act.

In pursuance of the order of reference to this Court, we heard argument on behalf of the Attorney General of Canada, the Attorney General of British Columbia and the Cooperative Committee of Japanese Canadians. It is further contended that as the Act of 1945 does not include the provisions contained in clause (b)of subsection 1 of section 3 of the War Measures Act, this constitutes a declaration by Parliament that in respect to the matters included in such clause there is no continuing necessity for the exercise of extraordinary powers by the Governor in Council from the first of January, 1946, by reason of the emergency of war or of any continuing transitional post-war emergency.

Under the provisions of section 2 of the War Measures

Act, the issue of a proclamation is to constitute conclusive evidence that war, real or apprehended, exists or has existed for any period of time therein stated and of its continuance until, which has not yet happened, by the issue of a further proclamation, it is declared that the war no longer exists. The Act of 1945 recites among other things as follows:

And whereas the national emergency arising out of the war has continued since the unconditional surrender of Germany and Japan and (2) [1923] A.C. 695. (1) [1945] O.R. 787, at 796.

By section 2, the Governor in Council may do and authorize such acts and things and make from time to time such orders and regulations, as he may, by reason of the continued existence of the national emergency arising out of the war against Germany and Japan, deem necessary or advisable for the purpose of certain specified matters including, by clause (e), continuing or discontinuing in an orderly manner as the emergency permits measures adopted during and by reason of the war.

Section 4 provides:

Without prejudice to any other power conferred by this Act, the Governor in Council may order that the orders and regulations lawfully made under the War Measures Act or pursuant to authority created under the said Act in force immediately before the day this Act comes into force the said Act in Act is in force, continue in full force and effect subject to amendment or revocation under this Act.

By section 5, provision is made for the Act to come into force on the first of January, 1946, and it is declared that On and after that day the war against Germany and Japan shall, for the on and the War Measures Act, be deemed no longer to exist.

It would appear that the effect of the declaration in section 5 just referred to is, so far as the War Measures Act is concerned, to render that statute no longer available as authority for orders or regulations thereunder. However, the statute of 1945 becomes the authority for the orders and regulations for which it provides, and an Order in Council of the 28th December, 1945, P.C. 7414, passed under its provisions and pursuant to section 12 of the Interpretation Act, provides that all orders and regulations lawfully made under the War Measures Act or pursuant to authority created under the said Act in force immediately before the day the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945, before the day the National that Act is in force, continue in full force comes into force shall, while that Act is in force, continue in full force and effect subject to amendment or revocation under that Act. I think, therefore, that although the Orders in Council I think, therefore, and derive any force from the provi-here in question cease to derive any force from the provihere in question coast act from and after the first of sions of the War Measures Act from and after the first of sions of the W ar th that date, they derive their force from January, 1946, after that date, they derive their force from January, 1940, attest by reason of the existence of the emer-the statute of 1945, by reason of the not think theref the statute of 1940, by the I do not think, therefore, that gency therein referred to. attack (apart from the question of severability) was made upon the orders which affects the validity of the orders with respect to nationals of Japan. As I know of no other ground of invalidity in this respect, I would hold the orders valid with respect to this class of person.

It was next argued on behalf of the Committee that

As will be observed, "deportation" is not defined in the Act but by section 1 (a) of P.C. 7353 it is defined as the removal pursuant to the authority of this order of any person from any place in Canada to a place outside Canada.

(It is also to be observed that the words used in subsections (1) (2) and (3) of section 2 of P.C. 7355 are "deported to Japan.") The contention on behalf of the Committee in effect is that these provisions are not authorized by the provisions of the War Measures Act.

counsel for the Attorneys General contend that "depor-Counsel for tation" as used in the statute is wide enough to include the tation" as used in the second meaning group or definition in the order is authorized by in any event, the earlier general language of subsection 1 of the Act. In Murray's New English Dictionary, "deportation" is defined as "to carry away," "carry off," "remove," "transport," "especially to remove into exile," "to banish." "Exile" by the same authority is defined as "enforced removal from one's native land according to an edict or sentence," " penal expatriation or banishment," " the state or condition of being penally banished," " enforced residence in some foreign land;" and "banish" is defined as " to put to the ban," " proclaim as an outlaw," " to outlaw," " to condemn a person by public edict or sentence, to leave the country," "to exile, expatriate."

Counsel for the Attorney General of Canada also called our attention to the definition of "deportation" in Webster's New International Dictionary, namely, the act of deporting or state of being deported; banishment; transportation; in modern law the removal from the country of an alien considered in modern the public welfare; distinguished from "transportation" and "extradition".

(1) (1918) 57 Can. S.C.R. 150.

This last is evidently taken from the judgment of Gray, This last is evidence V. United States (1), as follows:-In FORG 1 40 (transportation", "extradition", and "deportation", Strictly speaking, "transportation" a person from the count Strictly speaking, "transportation", and "deportation", although each has the effect of removing a person from the country, are "Transportation" is but although each has the effect of removing a person from the country, are different things, and have different purposes. "Transportation" is by way different things, and have different purposed of an offence against the laws of the of punishment of one convicted of an offence country of one of the surrender to another country of the surrender t of punishment of one convicted and another country of one accused country. "Extradition" is the surrender to be tried, and, if found country. "Extradition" is the suitchard to be tried, and, if found guilty, of an offence against is laws, there to be tried, and, if found guilty, of an offence against is laws, unlet us be then, and, it found guilty, punished. "Deportation" is the removal of an alien out of the country, punished. "Deportation" is the removal of an alten out of the country, simply because his presence is deemed inconsistent with the public welfare simply because his presence is deemen incomposed or contemplated either under and without any punishment being imposed or of those of the co and without any punishment peng imposed of concemptated either under the laws of the country out of which he is sent or of those of the country

Mr. Geoffrion points out that the Court in the case last to which he is taken. Mr. Geomrion points only with aliens and that the cited was in fact dealing only with aliens and that the cited was in fact usaming outed was obiter. He says in portion of the judgment is not binding on this any event that the judgment is not binding on this court. The importance or relevance of the above citation is, of The importance of four ding effect it may have, but as course, not from any binding effect it may have, but as course, not from any assigned to the word in question in illustrating a meaning assigned to the word in question in illustrating a meaning with a cognate subject. This use a modern statute dealing with a lithough of anoth a modern statute using a statute, although of another juris-of the word in such a statute, inquint as to the of the word in subally to the inquiry as to the meaning diction, leads naturally to the inquiry of Barli with which the word is used in statutes of Parliament and particularly in the War Measures Act. To consider the word merely as the equivalent of

"remove" or "carry away," as in fact it may be used, is to give effect to the contention of counsel for the Attorneys give enect to an out of the equivalent of " to General. To consider it, however, as the equivalent of " to General. To consider a "to banish" involves the idea of remove the came such as was involved in the old sentence of outlawry now abolished in criminal cases by the provisions of section 1031 of the Code. Such a meaning, in my opinion, is not apt in the case of citizens who have committed no offence, and as to whom there is no charge no trial and no conviction, nor is it apt in modern times in application to a natural born citizen of a country as it involves the idea that there is some other country to which the citizen may be sent, which is under some obligation to receive him by reason of some previous connection of the citizen with that country. No country is under any obligation to receive the natural born citizens of another country and any attempt to force such a citizen upon

In Bar on Private International Law, second ed., p. 135, the author says:---

"Repatriation" is defined by triation and to return to one's country;" "to restore a Murray as person to his own country." Thus in the present case there person to the reception of natural born Canadians is no consent country but Canada. Japan is a sovereign who have no power subject to the control of the powers represented by general MacArthur and no act such as is here in question General induces a network of the second seco can be legared a natural born Canadian to another country would involve an infringement of the sovereignty of the would involve apart from the consent of that country at a time when Canada has formally recognized the end of a time when and that the government of Japan is now as above stated, is, in my opinion, strong ground for construing above statute in question, in the absence of clear language, in a manner which does not involve such a result.

It is relevant here to refer to the official communication from the Government of Canada to General MacArthur to which the consent of the latter relates. That communication is contained in a letter of the 17th September, 1945, to the Canadian Ambassador at Washington and reads as follows:----

There are approximately 24,000 people of Japanese origin now resident in Canada. About 10,000 (including dependents) have expressed a desire communication is used only with respect to aliens. The word "repatriate" used with respect to the other persons is properly usable only with respect to persons other than natural born Canadian citizens. In my opinion, this communication affords the best evidence as to the sense in which the word "deport" is understood in this country. As I have already indicated, nowhere in the communication is it used with reference to natural born Canadian citizens and even the word "repatriate" as applied to such persons is not appropriate. What is being done in the case of such persons is expatriation.

It is to be observed that the word "deport" in the above

Counsel for the Committee further argues that where the personal liberty of the subject is in question, the view most favourable to the preservation of that liberty should be accepted. In Rex v. Halliday (1), Lord Atkinson said for myself, I must say that I never could appreciate the contention that statutes invading the liberty of the subject should be construed after one manner, and statutes not invading it after another, that certain words should in the first class have a meaning put upon them different from what the same words would have put upon them when used in the second. I think the tribunal whose duty it is to interpret the statute of one class or the other should endeavour to find out what, according to the wellknown rules and principles of construction, the statute means, and if the meaning be clear to apply it in that sense. Should the statute be ambiguous, equally susceptible of two meanings, one leading to an invasion of the liberty of the subject and the other not, it may well be that the latter should be preferred on the ground of the presumed intention of the legislature not to interfere with it.

This being so and the word itself natural born uning contexts, as set out above, a wider or having, in varying T think it is the duty of the having, in varying, I think it is the duty of the Court a narrower meaning, I think it is the canon of court a narrower incanances to adopt the canon of construction in such circumstances from the judgments already cited expressed in the passages from the judgments already cited expressed in the part, L.C.J. in Rex v. Chapman (2) where, and by Lord Hewart, D.Statutes 7th Ed p. 244 and by Lord House, on Statutes 7th Ed. p. 244, he said: referring word or ambiguous sentence leaves a reasonable doubt where an equivocal which the canons of interpretation fail to solve, the benefit of its meaning which the given to the subject and against the of its meaning which the given to the subject and against the legislature of the doubt should be given to the subject and against the legislature which has failed to explain itself.

When one looks at the enumerated powers in clause (b). "arrest, detention, exclusion and deportation," it is not unreasonable to conclude that in the case of citizens the powers of arrest, and detention added to the existing sanctions of the criminal law might well have been regarded by Parliament as ample, with the additional powers of exclusion and deportation in the case of other persons. All the powers given to the executive by the statute are emergency powers and in the scheme of things laid down in the statute it is not easy to see how Parliament either did or would contemplate the extension to natural born citizens, at least. of the power of removal from the state. These considerations, therefore, lead also to the conclusion which I have already expressed.

When once it is determined that the specified power of "deportation" is not as wide as the definition in P.C. 7355, I do not think that what is lacking can be made up. (2) [1931] 2 K.B. 606, at 609. (1) [1931] A.C. 662.

These words, or indeed, which the subsection deportation" itself, are not to be in the parthe subsection "deportation" itself, are not to be interpreted ticular word and the sovereignty of another count to be interpreted as authorizing what is really an illegal act, namely the as authorizons as authorizons of the sovereignty of another country, unless infringement of the sovereignty of another country, unless infringement of infringement of that intention is clearly expressed. In my opinion, unless that is so far as the Orders in Council provider there. that internion the orders in Council provide for the fore, in so far as the Orders in Council provide for the fore, in so has a second provide for the removal of natural-born Canadian citizens against their removal are invalid. Consequently, the provide for the removal of the invalid. It is by the same authority also "to banish." "ornel." "to hinder non ut," "to banish," "expel." As used in defined as "to put out," "to banish," "expel." As used in defined as the War Measures Act in the context of clause section 3 of the War Measures Act in the context of clause section 3 of the section 3 (1) I think it is used as the equivalent of (b) of section 3 (1) I think it is used as the equivalent of (b) of section Attorney General for Canada v. Cain (1), expulsion. In Attorney with validity of sortion of Cain (1), expulsion. In Lord Atkinson, dealing with validity of section 6 of the then Lord Atkinson, dealing with validity of section 6 of the then Lord Atkinson, at of Canada, 60 and 61 Victoria, cap. 11 Alien Laborna, cap. 11 as amended by 1 Edward VII Cap. 13, section 13, said at 547, at Jun, the power of expulsion is in truth but the complement of the power of the power of entry be prohibited, it would seem to fin the power of explanation of the power of exclusion. If entry be prohibited, it would seem to follow that the exclusion should be a should exclusion. If the power of exclusion should have the power to Government which has the power in opposition to its laws Governments who enters in opposition to its laws.

I cite this passage only as an illustration of the use of the word "exclude" in relation to a subject matter allied to the subject matter here under consideration. The power of "deportation" is used in the statute in my opinion as the complement of the power of "exclusion."

Mr. Cartwright further argued that at the time that the War Measures Act was passed in 1914 and also at the time of the revision of 1927, Parliament could not have authorized the Governor in Council to make orders or regulations repugnant to Part II of the British Nationality and Status of Aliens Act, 1914, as Parliament, apart from a rescission of the adoption of that Act had not that power itself. He (1) [1906] A.C. 542.

contends that the orders here in question, in so far as they affect naturalized British subjects of the Japanese race are repugnant to the provisions of the Imperial Act, and he contends that even had Parliament purported to legislate with respect to this class of person as in the Orders in Council, such legislation would be invalid by reason of the provisions of the Colonial Laws Validity Act. Mr. Cartwright further contends that although Parliament, since the passing of the Statute of Westminster in 1931 is not subject to such a limitation, nevertheless, Parliament was so subject in 1914 and 1927 and has not since 1931 reenacted the War Measures Act so that there is no "law made after the commencement of this Act" (the Statute of Westminster) "by the Parliament of a dominion"; (section 2 (1) of the Statute of Westminster). Mr. Geoffrion submits on the other hand that the Imperial Act of 1914 was never adopted by Canada.

In view of subsection 4 of section 9 of the Imperial Act which provides for rescission at any time by a dominion which has adopted the provisions of Part II of the Act, it does not seem necessary to consider the bearing, if any. of the Colonial Laws Validity Act. It is first necessary to consider the question as to whether or not there was an adoption of Part II by Canada.

While it would doubtless have been sufficient and perhaps preferable for Parliament to have adopted the provisions of Part II merely by legislating in express terms to that effect, I think that Parliament has done the same thing in another way. By 10-11 George V, cap. 59, passed in 1920, the provisions of the former Naturalization Acts of 1914 were revived. Mr. Geoffrion points out that the first Act of 1914 was in fact passed by Parliament before the date of the passing of the Imperial Act and that the latter when passed differed from the Canadian Act. In the second Act of 1914 the differences between the Canadian and the Imperial legislation were enacted by Parliament and this Act contains a recital that Parliament had "adopted" the Imperial Act by the first Act of 1914. Mr. Geoffrion contends that in fact that was not so. However that may be, I think the Act of 1920 by reviving the Acts of 1914, both of which had been repealed in 1919, which would include the declaration in the second Act as which would and the Imperial Act, is a declaration by to the ment in 1920 that the Imperial legislation by to the adoption to the in 1920 that the Imperial legislation by Parliament in Foote's Private International Law was Parliament In Parliament In Foote's Private International Law, 5th ed. adopted. In Foote's that Canada, Australia and ed. adopted. In Law, 5th ed. adopted. at author states that Canada, Australia and New-p. Jond did adopt the Act and I think that as the Newp. 35 the automotion of the Act and I think that as to Canada foundland did adopt the Act and I think that as to Canada that is a correct statement.

There has been no rescission of this adoption by Parlia-There has been is no attempt at rescission in the Orders ment and the orders in Council in question and it is provided, in any event, by in Council in quality of the Imperial Act that rescission is section 9 subsection 4 of the Imperial Act that rescission is section 9 subset not to affect legal rights previously acquired. Section 26 not to affect assume or growides that nothing in the Act subsection i, any legislature or Government of any British shall prevent treating differently different classes of possession from treating different subjects. section with the concurrence of the Government of that part of His Majesty's Dominions in which the Certificate was granted.

As to naturalized persons, therefore, whose certificates As to make outside of Canada their status, by virtue of were granted outside may not be affected by with of were granted Act, may not be affected by unilateral action the Imperial Act, may not by reason of the the Imperial action on the part of Canada, but by reason of the provisions of on the part of section 26 subsection 1 the rights and liabilities incidental to status are left to Canada. This provision was the law existing before the statute as applied in the case Re Henry existing both No one would suggest that the provisions of Adam (1). No one would suggest that the provisions of the Immigration Act R.S.C. cap. 93 which excluded from Canada British subjects coming within the classes mentioned in section 3 of that Act are in any way in conflict with the provisions of Part II of the Imperial statute and the same may be said of the provisions of the Chinese Immigration Act R.S.C. cap. 95. It follows, therefore, that it is competent for Parliament to deny to British subjects naturalized outside of Canada the right of residence in Canada, but not to interfere with their status except upon the terms set forth in the Imperial Act, including the (1) (1837) 1 Moore P.C. 459.

The recital with which P.C. 7356 begins is not to be interpreted, in my opinion, as broadening the scope of the recital in P.C. 7355. opinion, as production declared by Order 7356 is merely The loss of naturalization declared by Order 7356 is merely consequent upon physical removal of the persons concerned from Canada. It is not put upon any ground of disaffection upon which it might have been put under the provisions of section 7 of the Imperial Act as amended in 1918. The omission so to place it must, in my opinion, be taken to be deliberate, and as the ground upon which it is in fact put is not available under the terms of the Act in question, Order 7356 is invalid in so far as it purports to revoke naturalization but valid otherwise, and the provisions of Order 7355 which deny to naturalized persons the right of continued residence in Canada are valid.

As to the fourth class of persons dealt with by the orders in question, namely, the wives and children under 16 years of age "of any person for whom the Minister makes an order for deportation to Japan" my opinion is that the Orders in Council are invalid. It may be that some of the persons within this class are also within some one or other of the other classes and their position to that extent has already been dealt with. As to those who are not, however. there is nothing in any of the Orders to show that the Governor in Council considers their removal necessary or advisable within the ambit of the War Measures Act. The only attempt made in argument to support the Orders in the case of this class of person was the contention that the provision for their enforced removal was a humanitarian measure to prevent separation of families. That is not sufficient however. In Rex v. Comptroller of Patents (1), Clauson L.J. said:—

It is said that, if it does itself takes away the right be deemed to be in lawful sustain. itself takes and, if it does not, the words "shall be deemed to be in lawful custody" are otiose, and not, the words that, if the order purports to show that it not, the words that, if the order purports to show that the prisoner is it is claimed that, if the regulation, he must be deemed to be it the prisoner is it is claimed the regulation, he must be deemed to be in lawful custody. detained under the think that this is the meaning of, or the reason fawful custody. detained under that this is the meaning of, or the reason for, the clause, I do not think that this is the meaning of, or the reason for, the clause. I do not units the been irregularly made, the prisoner is not detained in If the order has been irregulation. It is to be not detained in If the order has been despite the regulation. It is to be noted that the Aliens pursuance of order, 1916, contained a similar provision. It provided that Restriction Order, 1916, contained a shin and detained in the provided that Restriction of the put on board a ship and detained in such manner as an alien might of State directed and that, while so detained, should be the Secretary of State directed and that, while so detained, should be (1) [1941] 2 K.B. 306, at 316. deemed to be in lawful custody. In R. v. Chiswick Police Station deemed to be in lawing custody. Superintendent, Ex. p. Sacksteder (1), I think that Pickford L.J., at p. 584 superintenaent, Ex. p. Bucksteart, (17) to expressed of this provision. The took the same view as that which I have expressed of this provision. The took the same view as that which that one provide that, once an order of object of the clause, in my opinion, is to provide that, once an order of object of the clause, in my opinion, is the order may be kept in custody detention is made, the person named in the order may be kept in custody detention is made, the person named in the seven if the Secretary of State anywhere, and not only in a lawful prison, even if the Secretary of State has not specified in the order a particular place for his internment.

See also the judgment of MacKinnon L.J. at p. 116. In the House of Lords, I refer to the judgment of Viscount Maugham at 394; Lord Wright, at 402 and 403. In my opinion the principles enunciated in these judgments are applicable to the point raised by Mr. Cartwright and I do not think that the paragraph objected to is other than valid. Mr. Cartwright further argued that the provisions of Order 7355 relating to the sale of real and personal property of deportees by the Custodian of Enemy Property was invalid as repugnant to section 7 of the War Measures Act. "Appropriation" is defined by Murray among other definitions as "to take possession for one's own." I think it is in this sense that "appropriation" is used in the War Measures Act and I do not think that the provisions of P.C. 7355 amount to appropriation in that sense.

Mr. Cartwright next argued that the Orders in Council constitute one scheme and the invalid parts are not severable from those parts which are valid. In fact it is stated in the factum of the Attorney General of Canada that the latter two Orders in Council have no operation except by reason of the first Order in Council. The three Orders in Council constitute one scheme the validity of which depends on the first Order in Council P.C. 7355.

In my opinion, however, applying the proper principle to this question the orders are severable.

The question submitted on this reference is as follows:

Are the Orders in Council dated the 15th day of December, 1945. being P.C. 7355, 7356 and 7357 ultra vires of the Governor in Council either in whole or in part and if so in what particular or particulars and to what extent.

to exist, and that therefore these Orders, even if valid when made on the 15th day of December, 1945, ceased to be effective as of the 1st day of January, 1946. Section 5 of the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945, reads as follows:

5. This Act shall come into force on the first day of January, one 5. Inis Act shan could forty-six, and on and after that day the war thousand nine hundred and forty-six, and on and after that day the war against Germany and Japan shall, for the purposes of the War Measures Act, be deemed no longer to exist.

This provision that "the war against * * * Japan shall * * * be deemed no longer to exist" is specifically limited in its application to the provisions of the War Measures Act and in effect merely removes the basis on which Orders in Council may be passed under that Act. It is not and does not purport to be a proclamation under section 2 of the War Measures Act declaring "that the war, invasion or insurrection no longer exists." Section 2 of the War Measures Act provides:

2. The issue of a proclamation by His Majesty, or under the authority of the Governor in Council shall be conclusive evidence that war, invasion. or insurrection, real or apprehended, exists and has existed for any period of time therein stated, and of its continuance, until by the issue of a further proclamation it is declared that the war, invasion or insurrection no longer exists.

This section contemplates a period after the conclusion of actual combat during which the period of emergency caused by the war will continue. Parliament gave expression to the same view when it passed The National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945, and embodied in the preamble thereof:

the national emergency arising out of the war has continued * * * since the unconditional surrender of Germany and Japan and is still continuing;

Parliament did recognize that the intensity and magnitude of the emergency had changed and diminished and under the provisions of this Act curtailed the extensive powers exercised by the Governor in Council under the War Measures Act.

The question whether an emergency exists or not is primarily a matter for Parliament, and through the National Emergency Transitional Powers Act, 1945, Parliament is doing in a general way what was done in special cases follow-

The fact that Order in Council P.C. 7414 was made and The fact that of December, 1945, and therefore prior dated the 28th day of December, 1945, and therefore prior dated the 28th day of the National Emergency Tran-to the coming into force of The National Emergency Tranto the coming into the 1945, on January 1, 1946, does not sitional Powers Act, 1945, a procedure is provided a sitional Powers that such a procedure is provided for in affect its validity as such a procedure is provided for in affect 115 values Interpretation Act, 1927, R.S.C., c. 1. section 12 of the Interpretation submitted the section 12 of the Interpretation and the section 12 of the Interpretation and the section and the sec Counsel for the Committee submitted that if these Orders

This Order includes provisions for revocation of the request on the part of those of the Japanese race who were naturalized or born in Canada. It seems appropriate that this purpose and intent be kept in mind throughout an examination of the provisions and construction of these orders in Council. Such was the position taken in England as evidenced by the statement of Lord Maugham:

My Lords, I think we should approach the construction of reg. 18B My Lords, (General) Regulations without any general presumption as of the Defence (General) Regulations without any general presumption as of the Defence except the universal presumption, applicable to Orders in to its meaning except like instruments, that, if there is a recent be orders in to its meaning other like instruments, that, if there is a reasonable doubt as to Council and other like words used, we should prefer a construction of the words used. Liversidge v. Sir John Anderson (1) Counsel for the Committee submitted that the word "deportation" as used in section 3 of the War Measures Act is restricted to the deportation of aliens, and as these Orders made under that Act deal with other than aliens, the Governor in Council has exceeded his authority. The the Governor in the second standard dictionaries do not agree as to the precise meanstandard divide. It is restricted to aliens in Fong Yue Ting v. U.S.A. (2). It is applied to native-born in Ting V. J.B.A. V. Government of Nigeria (Officer Eshugbayi Eleko V. Government in The Vigeria (Officer Administering), (3). As defined in the Immigration Act, Aamutister and the second Act, 1927, R.S.C., c. 93, it is not restricted to aliens. Upon this reference it is not necessary to precisely define the word. It is enough to emphasize that as it is applied in law it is a compulsory sending out of, or as stated in the Oxford Dictionary "a forcible removal," and that while it need not be restricted to aliens, it does apply to them.

The first of these Orders in Council, P.C. 7355, deals with four groups. Para. 2(1) provides for those Japanese nationals who either have made a request for repatriation since December 8th, 1941, or were detained under the Defence of Canada Regulations and so detained on September 1st, 1945. These Japanese nationals are aliens and as such are subject to deportation. The provision of the Order in Council for their deportation is valid. Attorney-General for Canada v. Cain (4), where Lord Atkinson at p. 634 states as follows:

One of the rights possessed by the supreme power in every State is the right to refuse to permit an alien to enter that State, to annex what conditions it pleases to the permission to enter it, and to expel or deport from the State, at pleasure, even a friendly alien, especially if it considers his presence in the State opposed to its peace, order, and good government, or to its social or material interest.

The second group is dealt with under para. 2 (2) of P.C. 7355. It provides for the deportation of those of the Japanese race who have become naturalized, who have requested repatriation since the declaration of war and who have not revoked that request prior to midnight of the first day of September, 1945. It is contended that the Parliament of Canada has no power to revoke this naturalization (3) [1931] A.C. 662.

therefor. This appears from the entire section, but is made abundantly clear by subsection (6) hereafter quoted, which goes further and envisages the cancellation by one government of a naturalization granted by another government in some other part of His Majesty's dominions. It was contended by Mr. Geoffrion that Canada had not adopted Part II but had enacted a new Act modelled after the British Act. In either view, in my opinion the legislation provides for revocation by the government granting the naturalization.

It seems to me that if during a state of war and the emergency resulting therefrom one so naturalized makes a request in writing for repatriation, he does so because of the war and matters associated therewith. The making of such a request and the persistence therein, as in this case to September 1st, 1945, a date after the cessation of hostilities, provides evidence that with respect to such a person his affections are not with Canada, the land of his adoption, but rather with the country from which he originally came. The effect of such conduct is a matter for the consideration of the responsible authorities of the State.

The only question with which we are here concerned is whether the Governor in Council had authority under the War Measures Act to provide for the deportation and the revocation of certificates of naturalization by Order in Council P.C. 7355. In my opinion the authority here exercised could in peacetime be exercised under the Naturalization Act. In time of emergency this can be accomplished under the War Measures Act through the medium of the Governor in Council passing an Order in Council and therefore in my opinion this paragraph in Order in Council P.C. 7355 is valid. In Re Gray. (1)

The same section 9 contains a sub-paragraph (6) reading as follows:

6. Where a person to whom a certificate of naturalization has been granted in some other part of His Majesty's dominions is resident in Canada, the certificate may be revoked in accordance with this section by the Governor in Council, with the concurrence of the Government of that part of His Majesty's dominions in which the certificate was granted.

A paragraph to the same effect is in the Imperial Act (Sec. 7 (5), c. 38, 8 & 9 Geo. V). It expressly contemplates the (1) (1918) Can. S.C.R. 150.

Counsel for the Committee submits that para. 6 of P.C. 7355 is beyond the powers of the Governor in Council because it is in conflict with section 7 of the War Measures Act. I do not think that contention is tenable. Section 7 of the War Measures Act is dealing with the appropriation of property by His Majesty for which compensation is to be made, and in the event of no agreement as to the compensation it will be determined by the Exchequer or other designated Court. In para. 6 of P.C. 7355 His Majesty is

In no real sense can this be regarded as deportation. It mitted. is the procedure of deportation founded upon the request of the respective individuals to go to Japan and to become a citizen of Japan. It is not a "forcible removal." There is no element of compulsion, a going against the will that is present in deportation. For reasons of their own these British subjects, entitled to the benefits and privileges and obligated to discharge the duties and responsibilities of British subjects at a critical time in the history of this country, intimate a desire to return to the country of their racial origin and to remain and become citizens of that country.

If these same parties went to Japan and acquired a citizenship there, the Naturalization Act, 1927, R.S.C., c. 138, s. 16, provides for their being deprived of British citizenship. A similar provision is contained in the Imperial Act, 4 & 5 Geo. V, c. 13, s. 17. This cancellation of citizenship is recognized by the comity of nations. The basis, therefore, is disaffection as evidenced by the voluntary acquisition of nationality in the country of their now residence. The people with whom we are here concerned have expressed their disaffection for Canada and set forth their affection for Japan. They have coupled therewith a desire to go to Japan. The Governor in Council under the circumstances decided to facilitate their going by perfecting the arrangements therefor as above indicated. This is more a matter of policy for the government than a question of jurisdiction for the courts.

It should be observed that their British citizenship is not cancelled by these Orders in Council. It is therefore suggested that at some future date they may return to Canada. That is a matter for the authorities and one which they have no doubt considered. In any event, it does not affect the validity of the Order and is not a matter to be considered upon this reference.

In my opinion the Parliament of Canada could so legislate and this paragraph is valid.

not appropriating property in that sense, but is taking possession of the property, disposing of same and transpossession of proceeds, less expenses incurred therewith, to mitting the proceeds, less expenses incurred therewith, to the owner who has gone to Japan under one of these Orders. No question of compensation is involved. The sections deal with entirely different matters with respect to which there is no conflict.

Counsel for the Committee also submits that para. 9 of P.C. 7355 is ultra vires in that it is contrary to the provisions of section 5 of the War Measures Act. Para. 9 reads as follows:

9. Any person for whom an order for deportation is made and who is detained pending deportation or who is placed under restraint in the course detained pending up to the of any order or measure made or taken under of deportation by virtue of any order or measure made or taken under ot deportation by the shall, while so detained or restrained, be deemed to section 4 of this Order shall, while so detained or restrained, be deemed to be in legal custody.

Section 5 of the War Measures Act reads as follows:

5. No person who is held for deportation under this Act or under any regulation made thereunder, or is under arrest or detention as an any regulation as an alien enemy, or upon suspicion that he is an alien enemy, or to prevent his departure from Canada, shall be released upon bail or otherwise discharged or tried, without the consent of the Minister of Justice. In particular Counsel contends that para. 9 deprives a person detained under Order in Council P.C. 7355 of the right to have the legality of his detention inquired into under habeas corpus proceedings because by its express provisions the legality of the custody is finally determined in the words "deemed to be in legal custody," and therefore a return to the writ that the person was so detained would preclude further inquiry. While section 5 of the War Measures Act specifically contemplates such proceedings with the consent of the Minister of Justice, this para. 9 purports to take away the right thereto and is therefore beyond the powers of the Governor in Council.

It should be observed that there are no express words in para. 9 which deny the party detained the right to apply for a writ of habeas corpus nor provide that a return as above indicated would preclude further inquiry. This writ and its availability to the subject is jealously guarded by the courts. It is one of the methods by which the subject may question the legality of his detention and is regarded as an assurance to the subject that he will not be illegally held under arrest or detention. Therefore, it has become held under all that only express language or language an established rule that only express language or language or language an established rate directly and imperatively to such so nelusion that will be sufficient to deprive the such an definite as the sufficient to deprive the subject a conclusion that will be sufficient to deprive the subject a conclusion that will be strong language b and b benefit of this writ. object of the paragraph, in my opinion, is to provide that once an order object of the paragraph, person named in the order may be kept in custody of detention is made, the person named in the order may be kept in custody anywhere, and not only in a lawful prison, even if the Secretary of State anywhere, and not other a particular place for his internment, which has not specified in the order a particular place for his internment, which

In the House of Lords Lord Wright speaks as follows: he can do later.

In the first place, para. 8 of the regulation does not, in my opinion, render lawful a detention which is, apart from para. 8, unlawful and unwarranted by the Secretary's powers. It is inserted to settle possible doubts as to prison law and practice. Liversidge v. Sir John Anderson (1)

A perusal of this section 9 will indicate how apt are the words of Lord Goddard in ascertaining its effect. It reads in part: Any person * * * who is detained * * * or who is placed under restraint in the course of deportation * * * shall * * while so detained or restrained, be deemed to be in legal custody.

It is his detention or restraint, wherever that may be, that will "be deemed to be in legal custody." It does not preclude an inquiry as to whether that legal custody is justified or legal within the terms of the Order in Council. It does not therefore deprive the party so detained or restrained of his right to apply for a writ of habeas corpus. This suggested conflict between section 9 and section 5 in my opinion does not exist.

It is contended that the right of a British subject to reside and to remain in Canada is a civil right and further that para. 6 of Order in Council P.C. 7355 providing for the protection, sale and dispatch of the proceeds to Japan realized from the sale of property belonging to a party who has been deported, is also a matter of property and civil rights; that under the B.N.A. Act by section 92(13) such matters are of provincial jurisdiction and in so far as the Parliament of Canada may purport to legislate with respect thereto, that legislation will be ultra vires and therefore in so far as these Orders in Council being legislation purporting to deal with these matters they are ultra vires.

there discussed, in my opinion this Order in Council is valid.

The third Order in Council, P.C. 7357, sets up a Commission of three persons:

* * * To make inquiry concerning the activities, loyalty and the extent of co-operation with the Government of Canada during the war of Japanese nationals and naturalized persons of the Japanese race in Canada in cases where their names are referred to the Commission by the Minister of Labour for investigation with a view to recommending whether in the circumstances of any such case such person should be deported.

The authority of the government to order such an inquiry cannot be questioned. The power of Parliament to legislate with respect to Japanese nationals and naturalized persons of the Japanese race has already been discussed when dealing with para. 2(1) and 2(2) of P.C. 7355. In any event, this Commission is but a fact-finding body with power to recommend to the Minister. Any order for deportation as a consequence thereof is upon the recommendation of the Minister, and the Governor in Council may pass such under para. 2(1) or 2(2) of P.C. 7355.

In the second paragraph thereof the Commission has power to review the case of any person of the Japanese race who was naturalized in Canada and who made a request for repatriation notwithstanding the provisions of Order in Council P.C. 7355. This is obviously but providing an opportunity for the reviewing of the case of one who has been ordered to be deported as a consequence of his request, and notwithstanding that he did not withdraw same before the 1st day of September, 1945.

In my opinion these Orders in Council, except with respect to one group dealt with in para. 2(4) of P.C. 7355, are as passed within the competency of the Governor in Council under the War Measures Act; that para. 2(4) of P.C. 7355, being as passed invalid, does not affect the validity of the other provisions of the Orders in Council. In my opinion with respect to the different groups the provisions of these Orders in Council are severable. Brooks-Bidlake and Whittall, Ltd. v. Attorney-General for British Columbia (1).
