DRAMA IN PROBATE COURT

BROTHER AND SISTER MEET

St. JOHN, N.B., Jan. 23.—A striking incident marked a session of the St. John Probate court this week when Senator A. B. Copp, of Sackville, brought face to face a brother and sister who had not met for 26 years, and incidentally introduced complications into distribution of the estate left by the late Mr. W. Albert Nelson.

One of the recalled—Mrs. A. I. Randall, a widow, said she had believed her brother dead as he had not been heard from for several years. She had been told by a neighbor that she could find him in this capacity had appeared in court to have her accounts passed, and the estate ordered distributed to her as sole next of kin.

Senator Copp and Mr. E. P. Raymond announced they were appearing as advocates for a brother of Mr. Randall.

"I can prove not only the existence of her brother," said Mr. Copp, "I can prove his identity. I know him well, as I was his schoolmaster at Middle, 25 years ago."

"Frederick Nelson, stand up!" Exclamation of brother and sister followed.

It had been found that Frederick Nelson, a returned soldier, was living in straitened circumstances at Balcarres, near Regina.

ARMISHAW'S PLEA UNHEEDED

CALGARY, Jan. 24.—Alberta's farmers today refused to ballot on a resolution favoring termination of Oriental immigration into Canada and cessation of property rights now vested in Oriental residents.

Consideration of the matter was referred to the board of directors of the United Farmers of Alberta at the annual convention. The question will be brought before the 1931 convention, it is expected.

Continuously, the fact party voted to refer the resolution back to the board. The decision followed advice of Mr. J. E. Armishaw, U.F.A. director for Acadia, who contended that the matter should have at least a year's consideration; the Alberta wheat pool had Orientals on a contract lease, he said, and passage of the resolution would involve property rights as British subjects.

APPROVAL FAVORED

Mr. J. E. Armishaw, president of the United Farmers of Canada, British Columbia section, favored approval of the resolution.

AID SOUGHT

The most serious question in Canada today is that of Oriental immigration, according to Mr. Armishaw. British Columbia will be "down and out" in the unless aid is accorded by the sister provinces.

He referred to a resolution, passed last November at an informal gathering at Vancouver, where municipalities, farm interests and the Vancouver Board of Trade were represented. The resolution entered a protest against Orientals being granted the privilege of voting at the next Dominion election, mentioning that reports indicated the intention of the Dominion government to prepare its own voters' list for the next election. Up to the present, the provincial list, from which Orientals are barred, has been used.

ORIENTAL CONTROL?

"The question confronting Alberta is whether we are going to reject the Pacific province or see it cast into the hands of the Oriental," said Mr. Armishaw. He stated that the Oriental immigration question is so serious that neither of the Dominion provincial leaders have mention it. It must be dealt with by the farmers, he insisted.

Speaking from an identified report of the British Columbia legislators, Mr. Armishaw characterized as the most serious aspect of the situation, the fact that in three years the number of Japanese school children had increased 74 per cent while white school children had increased six per cent.
