SIX LOSE LIVES IN AIR ACCIDENTS

SEVENTY-EIGHT CHILDREN RESCUED AS HOSPITAL BURNS

THIRTEEN violent deaths were reported from various parts of the continent in week-end despatches. Six were the result of airplane accidents and two to fires. Seventy-eight children were saved from death in a hospital fire in New York state.

THREE ELECTROCUTED
SPESLANTZ, Mich., April 14.—Three men were electrocuted today after a plane became entangled with high tension wires while attempting a landing at Ypsilanti airport.

The dead: Levi Kessler, 24, bank teller, from Ann Arbor; Herbert Fink, 31, superintendent of the airport; Win Lawson, 60, retired farmer of Ypsilanti.

John Haselmann, 23, of Ann Arbor, owner of the plane, and licensed pilot, was injured slightly.

Near and Far-Sightedness

The human eye is a most delicate piece of mechanism, being the most important of the senses. The function of the eye is calculated to provide for usefulness, enjoyment and to insure safety.

The importance of eyesight is becoming more intensified as civilization advances. The eyes have finer adjustments to make. Serviceable eyes are essential to health, proficiency and happiness. When the eye is anatomically misformed, it is said to be defective and glasses are needed for correction. Such an eye may be too long, in which case poor vision results. This is commonly known as near-sightedness (myopia).

The eye may be too short. This is called far-sightedness (hyperopia). This condition as well as astigmatism (a misshaped cornea) may result in lowered visual acuity. In both instances there is an excessive drain on the nervous system, due to the effort to make the eye see.

An accurate eye examination will reveal

Palace Guarded as Widows Demand Pensions

VIENNA, April 14.—Meagre despatches from Bucharest to Vienna newspapers said 20 persons were severely injured in a demonstration for higher pensions by widows and disabled veterans. Conditions were serious, reports said.

The royal palace was said to be under strong guard, including machine gun posts, in order to thwart possible outbreaks among the indigent populace.

According to rumors here three persons were killed during the demonstration, which consisted of a Bucharest has apparently gone into

EIGHT SLAIN IN TRAIN ATTACK

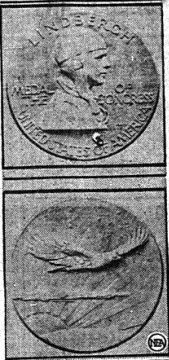

Bristow Kidnappers Beaten Back by Soldiers

MOGULES, Ariz., April 14.—Despatches to the Nogales Herald from Mesquite, Sinaloa, Mexico, declared that Gen. Pablo Rodriguez' troops had slain eight bandits, among them several of the party that kidnaped J. E. Bristow, San Angelo, Texas oil man, and the three desperadoes that kidnaped a Southern Pacific of Mexico train Saturday.

Bristow and his son, Gordon Oble, a football star, were aboard the train, which is due here today.

Soldiers guarding the train beat off the bandits' attack, which was launched after a partially burned bridge had halted the train.

Medal for Lindy

A "LONE EAGLE" flying through space, against a background of sun, stars and clouds, and a likeness of Col. Charles A. MAN'S POSE IS OVER

AND WEDDING IN FRANCE OFF

PARIS, April 14.—A blushing maiden of Troyes fell in love with a stalwart 'swain' and wedding bells were almost ready to ring for them when it was discovered that the bridegroom was a French "Captain Barker" (the name and title taken by an English woman who masqueraded for years as a man and married several women).

The revelation resulted from the latter's efforts to obtain legal recognition of her birth certificate which gave her real sex.

Vivian Howe had forgotten that if she changed to man's estate she would have to accept man's obligation of military service. The government claimed "him" and quickly discovered the truth.

Vivian's fiancée, Pierette, was incensed at the shattering of her romance. Her uncle, a farmer who had employed Vivian as a gardener, declared that he had lived in the same home, in the same room with Vivian for years without ever suspecting that "he" was not a man.

DEATH RATHER THAN POVERTY

Aged Japanese Attempts Hari-Kari

"Think about me with sympathy. I die because it is better than being poor."

So wrote Kichiro Naito, 63, of 804 Alexander street, Sunday night. He was weighed by old age, lack of money and no prospects of employment against the probability of starvation in a foreign land.

Naito took a knife and attempted "hari-kari."

Bleeding profusely from a gash in his abdomen and a cut on each side of his throat, Naito sat down in the 300 block Alexander street and awaited death.

He was discovered at 10:30 p.m. by Mr. Soren Malmiva, 233 Powell street, and Mr. Tokio Malmiva, 368 Powell street.

Police were summoned and he was removed to the General Hospital. He was pronounced dead.

Mr. F. T. Inuma, proprietor of the rooming house where Naito made his home, declared the man had lived there several years, had no money or dependents.

CHILDREN SAVED
By Associated Press
IRVINGTON, N. Y., April 14.—An employee was burned to death and 78 children, 18 of them bedridden, were carried or led to safety Saturday when fire destroyed Irvington House Cardiac Home, a private hospital for children with heart disease.

Edward Frye, 28, handy man and mechanic at the institution, was so badly burned when he was killed in an undetermined manner exploded causing the fire, that he died later in a hospital.

The 14 nurses at the hospital directed by their supervisor, Miss Lena Burritt, braved heat and flames to carry the 18 children, wrapped in blankets down fire escapes and inside stairways to the garage and other buildings on the hospital grounds.

These children, and a few others, along with several nurses, were the only ones in the hospital when the explosion occurred.

CHILD DIES IN FIRE

By Canadian Press
CHAMPLAIN, Sask., April 14.—Two timid to jump from a second story window, as her brother and sister had just done, Jean Fisher, seven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blay of Champlain, perished in a fire that destroyed the family home, 10 miles northwest of here yesterday morning.

At the time of the outbreak the entire family were asleep.

Rituel, the second girl, leaped from the window, and was followed by the younger boy. Then little Jean appeared at the window, her figure silhouetted against a background of fire. Her father pleaded with her to jump, but she cried back that she was afraid.

The father rubbed for a ladder, but before he had it in place, the child,

Leitha Pruitt of Pecco, was among five passengers injured severely in an airplane crash here Saturday.

Mrs. William Turner suffered internal injuries expected to prove fatal. William Turner, her husband, suffered internal injuries and both her children were badly shaken up and one suffered a broken leg.

Jack Eolles, pilot, was least seriously injured with numerous cuts and a broken nose. The plane was one of two operated by a barnstorming circus.
