Babson Says: 'BUSINESS is closely similar to a tri-motored airplane; one of the engines is advertising; another is personal salesmanship; and another is the mere motive force of primitive needs.'

When you kill the advertising engine, the business craft can neither speed nor climb.

There's always business for the salesman (firm) that keeps on working (advertising).

Tell The Vancouver Sun's 70,000 money-earning, money-spending families about your bargains—consistent Sun advertising will bring you
