Cheer Up, Says Babson After Long Sermon Where's the Car

By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright by The Vancouver Sun)

You will be glad to hear that Roger W. Babson, who told us in 1928, that we were just stepping on the totem, downward bound.

It consisted of rice and tea. Ishi Tera did not see his brother, but the food was sent to the cell.

A little later he called to the jailer that he was in great pain. The officer saw that Aoki was writhing in agony and he hurried to the cell.

Dr. K. D. Panton, police surgeon, was called. He had Aoki rushed to the Vancouver General Hospital, where he died shortly before midnight.

Ishi Tera, brother of the dead man, was interviewed and told that the food had been prepared in the Aoki home. The Aoki brother is a member of the Japanese community.

Lavish Promises Of Tories Would Cost One Billion

Hon. Ian Mackenzie

OTTAWA, June 17.—Denying that the "full implementation of all these promises would cost one billion dollars," Hon. Ian Mackenzie, speaking on the budget in the House this afternoon made a vigorous attack upon the fiscal proposals of Premier Bennett.

He charged the Government with "obscuring the issue of imperial preference by the use of the word 'tariff'."

Bandit to Be Sentenced for Davie St. Bank Holdup

Nels Nelson, self-confessed bank bandit, was found guilty in Police Court this morning of holding up the employees and robbing the Royal Bank branch at Davie and Denman Streets of $1902 on December 1, 1926. He was remanded by Magistrate H. C. Shaw to Friday for sentence.

A coat and hat alleged to have been worn by the bandit 4 1/2 years ago and kept by the Vancouver Police since the bank robbery were widely recognized by the police. The clothes, together with a black cloth mask, were found abandoned in the street a few blocks from the bank a short time after the hold-up.

When Nelson appeared in the witness stand in his own behalf he was recognized by the police. He admitted the robbery. He filled his pockets with the money, and he was seen by the police. The clothes, together with a black cloth mask, were found abandoned in the street a few blocks from the bank a short time after the hold-up.

TO PARTISAN BOARD FOR UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF NEEDED NOW

Swift Action Essential, Liberal Leader Warns

OTTAWA, June 17.—Centralization of all unemployment relief work under a non-partisan board was advocated yesterday in the House of Commons by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, in a driving finish to a four-hour speech on the budget.

Conditions in Canada were grave. They were more serious than at any stage in the history of the country. To combat them, relief work should be organized under a central board.

Men were walking the streets in cities and towns, looking unsuccessfully for work. Suffering was being experienced, sometimes starvation. Other workers were being discharged, their families were being starved.

And, dramatically added the Liberal leader, the Government should be asked to take the initiative in the relief work.
