STATISTICS PROVE IT

The facts assembled by Col. J. H. Woods of Calgary, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, are convincing proof that business is on the mend.

In an interview published in The Vancouver Sun yesterday Col. Woods quoted banking, investment and industrial figures, all of them showing substantial improvement over last year.

These figures are complete proof that what Roger Babson said about the United States is equally true of Canada.

What is wanted now is that the men who control the money strings, public and private, shall realize their opportunities and seize them quickly.

It is a discredit to Canada that anybody should go in want at any time, but with conditions now on the mend there is less excuse than ever for leaders of government and industry to delay in making constructive policies.

GANDHI SHOULD STAY AWAY FROM LONDON

Mahatma Gandhi is going to London to attend the Round Table Conference on Indian status. This is a mistake. Gandhi should stay away from London.

President Wilson made the same blunder. Fifty years hence the world will recognize the true greatness of his vision of lasting peace based on international co-operation through the League of Nations.

But when it came to translating his ideals into practical terms he should have delegated the task to men trained in the technique of politics. Wilson came out of the Versailles Conference badly, but if he had stayed in Washington and left the detail to Col. House it might have been very different.

Gandhi is much the same type of man as Woodrow Wilson. He, too, has a vision of human brotherhood and a world governed by love.

But let Gandhi go to London and get mixed up in the mechanics of politics, squabbling with this faction and that, pulling and being pulled hither and yon—and he will quickly be knocked off his pedestal.

He will lose standing with his own people and he will lose for them half the progress that he has made.

It is a loss for the whole world where great spiritual leaders such as Gandhi and Wilson become—even as they appear to become—tarnished with the political taint of bargaining and compromise. Surely there must be others to whom the Mahatma can entrust the practical work of the Round Table Conference.

Would Christianity be what it is today if Jesus, instead of Paul, had hustled about the world founding churches, patching up schisms, and battling with Rome?

Great ideas and great ideals require the service of two men; one, the creator and inspirer; the other, the propagator and organizer.

Gandhi should send his Col. House or his Paul to London.

MR. BENNETT LAUGHS

When Mr. Mackenzie King concluded his arrangement of the Government on the unemployment issue, the press despatchers record that "Premier Bennett laughed."

That little sentence may become as historic as Mackenzie King's "five cent piece."

Mr. King paid the political consequence of his indiscreet blunder. Next time it will be Mr. Bennett who has to explain.

EAT MORE FISH

Canadians are not great fish eaters, as a rule. But they should be, particularly here on the Coast where fresh fish is obtainable in unlimited quantity and in unrivalled quality.

Fishing was the first industry established in North America. It was for fish that the Breton sailors crossed the Atlantic to Newfoundland in the early days. The fisheries on the Atlantic and Pacific coastboards are still one of Canada's outstanding industries.

People should eat more fish. Interior folk on visiting the Coast marvel at the succulent flavor of the fresh fish to be obtained here in abundance. Fish should be a staple article of diet, not a mere incidental. Dietetic experts have found that fish contains all the prime essentials of food, proteins, fats, minerals and the various kinds of vitamins. In calories for fish is one of the most economical foods known.

Every dollar spent for fish is a dollar for British Columbia. Fishing is one of the major industries of the province. The fish catch is new wealth. The harvest is continuous and there is no cost of planting and cultivating.

British Columbians do not appreciate sufficiently the privilege that is theirs in having this all-round food product so plentifully provided by nature. Restaurants should feature fish on their menus. Housewives should give it a more frequent place on the family table.

PARLIAMENTARY LANGUAGE

Daily readers of Hansard occasionally regret that this work, like those of Shakespeare, contains no stage directions to describe the manner in which the speaker would like to know the gestures, the posture and the vocal inflection that accompanied the words of Jean-Francois Pouliot, K.C., member for Temiscouata, the other day. He said:

"Shut up, root beer and soft drinks." Just that and nothing more.

"Did he lean forward and has them as a curse at the Government?" Did he mutter these grimly under his breath? Did he shout them uproariously and disgustfully as he flopped back into his seat?

Alas, Hansard does not say. And without some explanation one can only guess from the context.

The preceding circumstances were that Mr. Pouliot had just been ruled out of order on his "unprompted" attempt to bring to the attention of the Government the grievous state of the plumbing in the Canadian National Station at Riviere du Loup.

The ensuing event was an effort by the Prime Minister, jealous of the dignity of Parliament, to have the words ruled "unparliamentary." This the Deputy Speaker declined to do.

"Shut up, root beer and soft drinks," thus stands as parliamentary language, but the readers of Hansard remain profoundly ignorant of its implications. Perhaps some Bourgeois or May of the future will devote a chapter to the subject.

Summer Has Come

Summer has come, the days are here When the air is warm and the skies are clear, The flowers are standing in bright array, The birds on the branches are singing away, All Nature is ringing and swelling the song, Summer has come! Summer has come!

Summer has come, the outdoor calls, The spark of the camp fire glitters and curls, The wish of the public on the air, And the cheerful sound of the seagull's call, Waterfalls dancing and trilling the song, Summer has come! Summer has come!

Summer had come, the shining sea, Beckons and calls in chuckling glee, White ships are sailing to far-flung lands, Where the bright moon shines on coral strands, And my heart is laughing and singing the song, Summer has come! Summer has come!

There are few people now who improve their circulation of the blood by the use of the Therapeutic Sitz Bath.

Orientation Now in Paper Box Industry in Vancouver

Editor, The Vancouver Sun: Sir,—Most of us use paper and cardboard boxes, but few enquire by whom or how they are made.

Both governments will approach more this coming winter than last, not to mention the municipalities. However, the city council has decided to take the way it was last winter with the result that hundreds who do not get it will go without.
