BAITING THE NATIONAL RAILWAYS

make no political change out of that campaign.

Instead of tyining to tear down the great organization Sir Henry Thornton has built up, they should cooperate and assis him in such fine constructive proposals as he advanced yesterday for combining the C.N.R. and C.P.R. coast stammlip services.

The methods by which they seek to undermine confidence in the C.N.R. management simply undermine confidence in themselves and the Conservative party.

They attack the $9,000,000 outley on the Caindian National Hotel in Vancouver. The city paid $17,000,000 for that hotel. Property wherfs that sum was deeded to the railway on the express agreement that the hotel was to be built.

decided to the railway on the express agreement that the hotel was to be built.

They criticise the C. N. R. for going into the hotel busifies at all. The hotels were there before the lines came under public ownership.

And from a tourist standpoint, Canada's splendid system of railway hotels is the best drawing card this country has. Americans universally agree there are no hotels in the world to compare with them.

The C.P.R. has 75 millions invested in hotels, the. C.N.R. only 22. With the hotel in Vancouver the total will be about 30.

"Competition ever," was Hon. R. B. Bennett's carrying make a significant of the hotel in the control of the hotel in the country of the hotel in the country of the hotel in the capture of the hotel in the country of the hotel in the capture of the hotel in the hotel in halved its dividend.

Eastern jibes at C.N.R. expenditures developing the West comes with ill grace in view of the hundreds of millions spent out of the public treasury in improving Eastern transportation facilities. Westerners contributed their full per capita share of the 220 millions hat the Dominion has invested in Eastern canals, and of the scores of millions in Eastern harbor development, intercolonial losses, Montreal bridge, etc.

The campaign of baiting the C.N.R. brings discredit upon only one institution in Canada—the Contextual to the context of the context

WHY FRANCE HESITATES

President Hoover's moratorium proposal requires rance to do without 100 million dollars of revenue or the coming year.

France's annual budget is two billion dollars. Her irect annual expenditure on army and navy is 250 silions. If she foregoes 100 millions or reparation ayments from Germany, the sum available for French ultitary expenditure will be reduced by two-fifths.

France still thinks in terms of militarism and war,
he will wrigige and squirm to escape the Hoover sultion of the world's economic problem.

But she will probably come through in the end.
novestors are risking their money on the prospect anyray. Stocks are still going up.

REFORMING THE CLOCK

Lord Newton met with little success when he asked England to take tea at half past extreen o'clock and close the pubs at twenty-three o'clock.

He introduced a bill to reform the clock, but it seems to have died a peaceful death in the House of Lords. Canadians will not be surprised. They remember the valiant effort of the C.P.R. to bring up the young West on the twenty-four hour clock.

Development of St. John Harbor has kept. a tremendous volume of traffic in Canada that would otherwise go to United States ports. It is incomprehenshile that the Dominion Government should enterrain any idea of letting that business get away.

The Port of St. John must be rebuilt, of course. It is an essential part of Canada's national plant.

PREMIER BENNETT'S RED GOBLINS

Premier Bennett is not the only government chiefin whose dreams are disturbed by "red goblins."

The Greain Government blamed Russia for forunting a tobacco strike.

The Sowets were blamed for the revolution fin Brail. Formers Secretary Kellog accused the Reus of a plot to sit up Latin America against the United States. Collier's Weekly comments as follows:

"When a politician begins to call his adversaries Communitat, it is fair to assume that he is afraid to meet the real issues which confront him."

The Man Who Fails

He is grouchy and slow when work begins; When it's time to quit, he jokes and grins. He's always as busy as busy can be When he thinks the boss is around to see.

He believes that a "pull" is the only way By which he can ever draw bigger pay, And he sulks and growls when he sees his plan Upset by the "push" of another man.
