LOOKING BACKWARD

Forty Years Ago. June 2, 1902. PEACE DECLARED - An official cablegram from Lord Kitchener dated Pretoria, Saturday, May 31, 11:15 p.m., says: "A document containing terms of surrender was signed here this evening at 10:30 o'clock by all the Boer representatives as well as by Lord Milner, the British High Commissioner in South Africa, and myself."

Army to Absorb Japanese Cars

Most of the 400-odd cars and trucks seized from Japanese and now parked in the Hastings Park oval and at Victoria are still not in use, but are gradually being taken over by government departments. Although no statement on the matter has been released by the office of the custodian of Japanese property, it is understood that all the first-class cars and trucks will be purchased by the army services, provincial forestry branch, R.C.M.P., and some other departments.

The news of peace in South Africa was not expected in London today. Soon after the receipt of the despatch, however, the news spread to the clubs and hotels and was received with much enthusiasm. When the first bulletin of the news was received from Montreal in Vancouver over the C.P.R. telegraph wires it was immediately posted by Manager M. T. Quigley and soon attracted scores of people. The news in the churches was received with bursts of applause by the congregations, who rose and sang the National Anthem and the Doxology.

NEW DEGREE For Teachers

The University of British Columbia announced today that a new degree of Bachelor of Education has been instituted. This step is an attempt to encourage teachers to improve their professional standing by further study, and to bring the practice of the University of British Columbia into line with that of other leading Canadian universities. The degree will represent fifteen units of credit, the equivalent of a year's work, obtained in addition to the Bachelor of Arts degree. Students who have completed the teachers' training course in the University will be granted six of these units. Other students will receive credit according to University work in education taken beyond the Bachelor of Arts degree.

delegation of clerks, claimed the petition had the vast majority of large food stores in New Westminster. It was practically impossible to get the signatures of those who operated small corner stores in various parts of the city. These were nearly all owner-operated, selling at all hours and if they had to close early it meant cutting off their livelihood. The stores which dealt in service more than in volume of business. They did not affect the large downtown stores. If the petition was not valid for the closing of all food stores, Mr. Maxwell suggested there were sufficient signatures to close all butcher shops at the earlier hour. This would be asked if the larger petition was not accepted later.

Chinese Woman Gets Judicial Separation

Mr. Justice Ellis, in Supreme Court, granted Seto Hon Ying, Chinese, of Georgia Hotel, a judicial separation on the ground of cruelty and desertion from Wilfred Seto, or Seto Pei Ming, importer and exporter, 1145 Cardero, whom she married in Hong Kong on June 28, 1939. The wife alleged that her husband left China in October, 1939, without her knowledge, for Vancouver and took with him her jewelry, which she valued at $3000. She followed him and, after her arrival, he returned the jewelry to her. She hypothesized her jewelry to raise funds for her support. A 2-year-old daughter of the marriage remains with the husband's parents in Vancouver with liberty reserved to Mrs. Seto to apply for custody when she is in a position to take care of the child. Gordon W. Scott appeared for the wife.

Army Service Corps Enlisting Horses

RED DEER, Alta., June 2. (CP) - To save tires and gasoline, the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps training centre here is turning to the old standby - horses. Capt. Col. J. J. Burton-Willison, officer commanding, told reporters the army was planning to enlist horses to carry on "local" work at the camp. This is believed to be the first time horses have been used by the Canadian army in this war.

NEW DEGREE For Teachers

The University of British Columbia announced today that a new degree of Bachelor of Education has been instituted. This step is an attempt to encourage teachers to improve their professional standing by further study, and to bring the practice of the University of British Columbia into line with that of other leading Canadian universities. The degree will represent fifteen units of credit, the equivalent of a year's work, obtained in addition to the Bachelor of Arts degree. Students who have completed the teachers' training course in the University will be granted six of these units. Other students will receive credit according to University work in education taken beyond the Bachelor of Arts degree. It will be also possible, under certain conditions, to take for credit one course in a subject other than education. A thesis will not be required. The new degree will not replace the existing degree of Master of Arts (major in education), which will be awarded as heretofore. It is intended to meet the needs of the many teachers who do not wish to study intensively in fields other than education and whose interests are better served by taking an additional course than by preparing a thesis.

The University has recently increased its offering in education by the addition of 15 new courses. These will be available from time to time, chiefly in summer sessions, as the demand warrants.

Jap Evacuation Failure Scored

A spokesman for Japanese in Vancouver Monday charged that the chairman of the B.C. Security Commission has failed to evacuate the Japanese population and has consistently refused to consider schemes which had "strong intimations of approval" from the Federal Government. The spokesman said that the federal minister of labor and the deputy minister for external affairs had seen Japanese proposals for mass evacuation in family groups, and had told representatives of the Japanese to ask Austin C. Taylor to request the Federal Government to designate areas in which they could settle. "So far as we know Mr. Taylor has refused to even ask the Federal Government to designate areas." The spokesman said the Japanese were opposed to the breaking up of families, but that the commission appeared to be determined to separate the men from their wives and children. The commission declines to comment.

Reports heard yesterday were from committees of the Coordinating Council for War Work and Civilian Defense, under chairmanship of Dr. A. K. Haywood. E. W. Liddington, chairman of the special casualties committee, reported that no immediate responsibility for special casualties is covered under Unemployment Insurance, although it is expected Major W. Wood will appoint a veteran's welfare officer here this week. Falling in the special casualties group will be heart cases, tubercular, blind, deaf, gunshot wounds and neurasthenia cases, handicaps both physical and hidden. Cases must be studied individually and suitable types of training developed. Importance of following each man's progress after employment would be a major function.

Questionnaire forms as supplied to men in the armed services were criticized as being unsuitable. Mr. Allison felt the forms should be filled out prior to demobilization. A definite policy on methods of granting discharges from the armed forces, either on the basis of length of service or other means, was advocated by A. W. Cowley, chairman of the demobilization committee. It was suggested that regional demobilization centres be set up from which men might go directly to vocational training centres.

WAR SURVEY INDUSTRY. J. B. Allison, chairman of the employment and placement committee, told the meeting a survey of industry in British Columbia is contemplated. Industry must bear the initial load of rehabilitation and supply valuable information to the government so that a public work program might be arranged to employ others.

BLUEPRINT. Ward Bell, training committee chairman, held up the youth training scheme as a possible blueprint on which to base post-war education of ex-service men. Possibility of a great influx of men to B. C. following the war was seen by George C. Derby, special cases committee chairman. Some ambiguity in connection with share of cost of vocational training under Bill Number 64, now before Parliament, was seen by Hon. H. G. Perry, in that B. C. may be faced with a heavy bill of expense for these purposes following the state of national emergency.

Mr. Derby suggested that, in the case of unemployable veterans, there should be some amendment to the Old Age Pensions Act in certain cases to care for these men. Sittings continued today.
