British Columbia Supreme Court

Murphy J. (In Chambers)

Heard: January 5, 1923. Judgment: January 11, 1923.

Counsel:

Hossie, for the trustee. Wilson, K.C., and Griffin, for the creditors.

1 MURPHY J.:-- In my opinion, the decision of the trustee is correct and distribution should take place in accordance with Exhibit D, called Exhibit 2 at the hearing. I have already held on the authority of Sinclair v. Brougham, (1914), 83 L.J., Ch. 465 that no debt could be created by deposit of money in the bankrupt concern after April 15th, 1920. If that is correct then this application seems determined by the decision in Wright v. Laing (1824), 3 B. & C. 165. It is there laid down that where a person has two demands one recognized by law the other arising on a matter forbidden by law and an unappropriated payment is made to him the law will afterwards appropriate it to the demand which it acknowledges and not to the demand which it prohibits. There is no qualification of this principle as I read the decision in The Mecca (1897), 66 L.J., P. 86.

McDONALD, J.:-In my opinion the decision of the trustee is McDonald, s... correct and distribution should take place in accordance with ex. D. called ex. 2 at the hearing.

I have already held on the authority of Sinclair v. Brougham, [1914] A.C. 398, that no debt could be created by deposit of [1914] A.O. boo, and a second after April 15, 1920. If that is correct, then this application seems determined by the decision in Wright v. Laing (1824), 3 B. & C. 165, 107 E.R. 695. It is there laid down that where a person has two demands one recognised by law the other arising on a matter forbidden by law and an unappropriated payment is made to him the law will afterwards appropriate it to the demand which it acknowl edges and not to the demand which it prohibits. There is no qualification of this principle as I read the decision in The Mecca; Cory Bros. v. Owners of S. S. Mecca, [1897] A.C. 286. Judgment accordingly.

It is urged that the sheriff never replevied the boat, that he, It is unservice on the bond, and that plaintiff being therefore, the sheriff did replevy the body there are his assigned: 1 ist the sheriff did replevy the boat. He took it two answers in the possession of plaintiff and held it so that it was available if the claimant succeeded at the trial. True, he did available not hand it over to claimant, but it does not appear that the claimant ever asked for delivery. In connection with this point, I hold the contention that the plaintiff, or his solicitor, refused to accept the bond not proven. I have here two officers of the Court contradicting one another on a question of fact. I see no reason to disbelieve either and, therefore, hold the one who propounds the affirmative to have failed to prove his assertion. Such unfortunate issues would not arise if otficers of the Court would transact all official business in writing. I accept the evidence of the plaintiff that he never personally refused to accept the bond. Next, the bond is, I think, given in replevin actions not primarily for the possession of the article replevied by the plaintiff but to ensure that the property on its value will be available when judgment is given in the proceedings that it may 79-[1923] 1 D.L.B.
